Revolt Causes Chaos In Russia

NO PROSPECT FOR PEACE AT EARLY DATE

End of First Week of Controversy Between Church and State Finds Conditions Unchanged--Business Circles Fear Boycott May Become More Serious As Settlement Seems Remote.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The end of the first week in the break between the Roman Catholic church authorities and the Mexican government over the government's newly imposed regulations governing the enactment of the religious clauses of the constitution found the opposing groups in unchanged positions.

There apparently are no prospects of a settlement of the controversy at an early date. The priests continue to absent themselves from the churches but the doors of many of the edifices are open for worshippers to enter and meditate and pray.

Business circles continue to take a gloomy view of the situation fearful that the economic boycott instituted by the League for Defense of Religious freedom as a protest against the religious regulations may assume serious proportions in the capital.

The belief prevails here that the movement calling for no expenditures by the people except for absolute necessities is being obeyed much more in other parts of the country than in Mexico City, but there are evidences of its effect here, particularly in the small attendances in the moving picture houses and in the purchases of luxuries.

Little news regarding conditions in other parts of the republic is being made available in Mexico City, but apparently with the exception of occasional purely local disturbances the situation growing out of the religious controversy seemingly is being calmly accepted by the mass of the people.

Statement by Seans.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—By the Associated Press.)—An opinion that advantage has been taken of the sensational side of the religious situation in Mexico, and that only one aspect of the problem has been presented, was expressed here by Aaron Sears, minister of foreign affairs of Mexico, in connection with answers to written questions submitted to him by newspapermen.

There is no persecution on the part of the government, the statement read, but the attitude of a subversive character that the different religious elements have been assuming in Mexico, has compelled the government to enforce what the provisions of the Mexican law established on the question, starting with the fundamental principle of absolute separation between the church and the state.

"The government of President Calles has been entirely and absolutely devoted to an intense reorganization, facing the solution of important national problems.

Melvin was riding his bicycle off the side-walk onto Twenty-third street when he was struck by Sandahl's car turning off O street north.

Sandahl is allered to have run away from the scene of the accident. Police said G. W. Measham 1740 North Twenty-fourth street, gave chase and captured the man, taking him to the police station. Sandahl's version of the case is that he did not know his car had struck the boy.

Claim Janitor Did Dental Work Without License

Complaint may be filed against Fred E. Henderson, janitor of Temple Baptist church at Twenty-seventh and Holdrege streets, for practicing dentistry without a license, according to R. G. Anderson, special agent for the state welfare department. It is alleged that Henderson has been doing dental work at the church for members of the congregation, without having been examined or licensed by the state as required by law.

State Welfare Secretary Frost called Henderson to his office Friday afternoon, following the receipt of complaints from members of the church who had let him work on their teeth. He admitted having been engaged in practice, Secretary Frost stated.

One woman reported to Secretary Frost that she had paid Henderson $25 for work done by him, but is having trouble with her teeth in spite of it.

Henderson has been attending the state university dental school and got his degree at the close of its summer session in July. This, however, does not entitle him to practice.

Urges Uniting of Family.

"Religious Education in the Home" was the topic discussed in the last of the class on religious education conducted by Prof. Nelson P. Horn. The uniting of the family as a group was an end desired by Prof. Horn toward constructive religious education in the home. He urged that the house be made a real home where the children like to be, instead of a place to shun.

He urged the families to go to church together and sit together, and to take their vacations and recreational programs together. He believes that the building up of the family unit is the one thing that can save the world today.

The first time the elevator vault was smashed, $12 was taken. The second time nothing was missed. In each case the inside doors to the place have been pried open with a pinch-bar. The outside doors are left unlocked.

MISS EDERLE WINS FAME AS A SWIMMER

Plucky New York Girl First Woman Ever To Conquer English Channel, Swims Distance In 14 Hours 32 Minutes---Feat Accomplished In Record That Bests Any Ever Made By Man.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The English channel has been conquered by Gertrude Ederle, the 19-year-old American girl swimmer.

Old Neptune, after numerous previous refusals, including Miss Ederle herself, at last has lifted his three pronged spear and permitted a woman to swim across the turbulent waterway dividing England and France.

And as if in a most deferential mood, he accorded the former American and Olympic champion such generally favorable conditions that she accomplished it in shorter time than any of the five men who were able to make the arduous journey from 1[illegible]2 to 1923.

Starting from Cape Gris-Nez, France, at 7:09 Friday morning under splendid weather and tidal conditions, the New York girl churned the waters of the channel almost continuously with her strong overhand stroke and the crawl-kick that brought her fame as an amateur natator, until 9:40 o'clock Friday evening.

Then she touched bottom at Kingsdown, between Dover and Deal, and walked happily ashore under the glare of huge bonfires built along the beach to guide her toward the chalk cliffs, amid the acclaim of crowds of spectators.

Sets New Record.

She had brought ashore with her a new record of 14 hours 31 minutes for the swim, and was pleased with her achievement.

State Welfare Secretary Frost called Henderson to his office Friday afternoon, following the receipt of complaints from members of the church who had let him work on their teeth. He admitted having been engaged in practice, Secretary Frost stated.

One woman reported to Secretary Frost that she had paid Henderson $25 for work done by him, but is having trouble with her teeth in spite of it.

Henderson has been attending the state university dental school and got his degree at the close of its summer session in July. This, however, does not entitle him to practice.

ASSEMBLY TALKS BY MISSIONARIES

Woman's Society Conducts Afternoon Prgram At Epworth Park.

Two Missionaries To India Tell Of Their Work Abroad.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society was in charge of the Saturday afternoon Epworth assembly program, presenting two missionaries from India who told of the conditions there and of their work. The speakers were Miss Winnie Gabrielson and Miss Mable Simpson. Miss Ella Watson of Lincoln presided over the afternoon session.

Miss Gabrielson for several years was a missionary in northwest India where she served as an evangelist to the natives. She told of the situations there resulting from the caste system and of "the Christian fight to make India free for democracy."

Miss Simpson's post was at Sironcha, India, in the central part of this sub-continent. She is a trained nurse and related her experiences of service and assistance there. Her post is in the heart of a strictly Mohammedan area, just on the edge of the famous Indian jungle, one hundred and twenty miles from a railroad.

Urges Uniting of Family.

"Religious Education in the Home" was the topic discussed in the last of the class on religious education conducted by Prof. Nelson P. Horn. The uniting of the family as a group was an end desired by Prof. Horn toward constructive religious education in the home. He urged that the house be made a real home where the children like to be, instead of a place to shun.

He urged the families to go to church together and sit together, and to take their vacations and recreational programs together. He believes that the building up of the family unit is the one thing that can save the world today.

Break Into Vault Farmers Elevator But Get No Loot

For the third time in five years the vault of the Farmers Elevator company at Sprague was broken into some time Friday night. Nothing, however, was taken. Only books and records are kept in the vault. Officers believe the break-ins have all been committed by the same person, or persons.

County Sheriff Hensel and Walter Schroeder, fingerprint man, investigated the break-in Saturday but found only one finger-print that might lead to a solution.

The first time the elevator vault was smashed, $11 was taken. The second time nothing was missed. In each case the inside doors to the place have been pried open with a pinch-bar. The outside doors are left unlocked.

MISS EDERLE WINS FAME AS A SWIMMER

Plucky New York Girl First Woman Ever To Conquer English Channel, Swims Distance In 14 Hours 32 Minutes---Feat Accomplished In Record That Bests Any Ever Made By Man.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The English channel has been conquered by Gertrude Ederle, the 19-year-old American girl swimmer.

Old Neptune, after numerous previous refusals, including Miss Ederle herself, at last has lifted his three pronged spear and permitted a woman to swim across the turbulent waterway dividing England and France.

And as if in a most deferential mood, he accorded the former American and Olympic champion such generally favorable conditions that she accomplished it in shorter time than any of the five men who were able to make the arduous journey from 18[illegible]2 to 1923.

Starting from Cape Gris-Nez, France, at 7:09 Friday morning under splendid weather and tidal conditions the New York girl churned the waters of the channel almost continuously with her strong overhand stroke and the crawl-kick that brought her fame as an amateur natator, until 9:40 o'clock Friday evening.

Then she touched bottom at Kingsdown, between Dover and Deal, and walked happily ashore under the glare of huge bonfires built along the beach to guide her toward the chalk cliffs, amid the acclaim of crowds of spectators.

Sets New Record.

She had brought ashore with her a new record of 14 hours 31 minutes for the swim, and was pleased with her achievement.

CHICAGO GUNMEN KILL BOOTLEGGER

Gangsters Claim Second Victim Within Twenty-four Hours.

Obtain New Lead In the Murder Of McSwiggin and Doherty.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7—(By the Associated Press.)—A shotgun broadside split the air on a South Side residential street Friday afternoon and John "Midders" Foley, reputed bootlegger, fell dead, the second victim of gang assassins within less than twenty-four hours.

Four arrests yesterday had failed to unfold the slaying Thursday night of Milan Dylick, said to be a police informer, who was shot through the heart as he sat in his home surrounded by his wife and four children. A vendetta following a gang killing five months ago was blamed for the death of Dylick.

Foley was run down and shot to death by an automobile load of gangsters, who showed a cool disregard for chance witnesses. According to John M Dunne, a landscape artist, three men in a green automobile hovered near the Foley home late in the morning. They returned in the afternoon and overtook Foley in his automobile about a block from his home. Foley leaped from his machine in an effort to run home ,but was knocked down by a shotgun volley from his pursuers. One of them ran to where the victim lay, Dunne said, and fired another charge into his head, after which all made off in their car.

Charles A. McDonald, special prosecutor in charge of an investigation of the crime and of vote frauds in Cook county said he was working on a "new lead" which might result in the identification of the two men known to have been with the slain men

$5 a Prescription.
The Animals Within Us.
Far Off? Never Mind.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Government authorities indict 27 doctors, 32 druggists.

Doctors sold whisky prescriptions to druggists at $5 each. Every three months the doctors gets 100 prescriptions from the government Some doctors sell a whole book as cheap as $200, others got $500 for a book. The druggists sold $20 worth of whisky to a prescription.

This prescription business in New York amounts to about $15,000,000 a year. Prohibtionion is profitable, although not yet exactly practical.

In character we are as far apart as hyenas and white rabbits

For instance, little Jimmy Mills was sexton of the Episcopal church in New Brunswick that had for pastor the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall

The Rev. Hall knew Mrs Mills too well They were not cautious, and when they met under the crab apple tree somebody murdered them.

Little Jimmy Mills lost his wife, whom he liked, and now he cooks for the children. But he says, "I don't know who did it, but, whoever it was, I don't want him or her killed. The only thing that hurts my feelings is that Mrs Hall doesn't speak to me any more."

How different from the mental attitude of the murderer or murderess that killed the clergyman and Mrs. Mills, who sang in his choir How do you explain psychically the fact that Mrs Hall, who lost a husband, does not speak to Jimmy Mills, who lost his wife in the same calamity?

Distance lends indifference. Three thousand Chinese are drowned by the rising of the Yangtze river, 2,000 square miles are inundated, many must starve.

But China is on the other side of the earth, so that news means little to us

If we heard that some great body in space, billions of miles away, had been destroyed, and billions of lives wiped out, that would mean nothing at all We are provincial

The strange thing is that China, with half a billion population, labor costing practically nothing, has endured floods and calamities for thousands of years and never found a way to neutralize the floods

Labor spent on the great Chinese wall to keep out barbarians, and that did not keep them out, would have made the Yangtze safe

A British diplomat announces that in the next war not submarines, but airplanes, will terrorize commercial shipping The cries will be "Sink at sight," and "the illegality of such attacks will be entirely immaterial"

Heaven help the nation not thoroughly protected for war. Therefore, heaven help this sleeping nation, swollen with gold, as defenseless as Persia when Alexander marched in

INTENSE HEAT WAVE BROKEN

Cooling Breezes Relieve Intense Suffering In Middlewest.

Seventeen Deaths In Chicago Caused By High Temperatures.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Old man humidity, who for two days has been able to make the middlewest believe the mercury was well over the hundred mark when it was only in the eighties and nineties, bade a lingering farewell Friday while the weather bureau forecaster rose to predict ideal weather for the weekend.

In Chicago the mercury went up to 85. Two more deaths were reported for the three day hot period increasing the total fatalities attributed to the heat here to seventeen

Throughout the middlewest the heat was again general with many towns reporting near 100 degrees. At Peoria a heavy storm early yesterday did considerable damage and was believed to have caused the death of one man

Mercury Hits 100.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Cooling breezes and scattered showers tempered the heat wave in many sections of the middlewest and southwest Friday, although in portions of Kansas and Oklahoma, the mercury again climbed over the century mark.

Relatively high temperatures continued in the central valley states with oppressive humidity, but it was predicted that cooling northwesterly winds today will break the heat wave, which in two days took a toll of fifteen lives.

After a night which drove thousands of sufferers into the parks in Kansas City, fresh breezes yesterday ended the excessive heat in this vicinity. High pressure areas over the northwest where the mercury was down as low as 46 and 48, caused the drop in temperatures, the government bureau explained.

At Pittsburgh, Kas., a maximum of 102 degrees was record Friday afternoon and in Oklahoma the high temperatures were repeated. At Bartlesville, the mercury ascended to 108, two degrees higher than Thursday.

Much Water Used.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 7.—(AP)—With the mercury soaring to 98 at noon, St Louis Friday established a record for the consumption of water when a total of 157,700,000 gallons was pumped into the mains

Three cases of heat prostration and one of heat exhaustion were reported

Although 98 degrees is not considered unusually hot for August, the discomfort of the day was caused by the humidity which reached 42, which Forecaster Hayes considered about 7 per cent higher than it should have been with a temperature of 98 degrees

"Lost Will" Basis For An Attack On Hopkins Estate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—(AP) —The Examiner says that the purported "lost will" of the late Mark Hopkins, multi-millionaire railroad builder and California pioneer, was brought to this city Wednesday night and today will become the foundation of a legal attack on the Hopkins fortune, now estimated as in excess of $300,000,000.

Allegedly the will was found recently in a deserted house near Hillsborough, N. C. It is to be filed for probate in superior court here If upheld as the genuine will of the famous member of the "Big Four" who built the Central Pacific railroad, it will divert the Hopkins fortune to 137 heirs and upset all recognized genealogies of the Hopkins family.

MOTHER OF SEVEN CHILDREN

Helped in Caring for them by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Glasgow, Ky.—"I am the mother of seven children, the eldest being only 12 years, and I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to pull me through the roughest places of my married life. At one time I was so downhearted that life was a misery. A friend in Indianapolis, Indiana, told me of the Vegetable Compound, and after taking a few bottles of it I became myself again and it was a pleasure to do my housework and gardening. Since then I always use your medicine when I feel weak from overwork and it straightens me out."—Mrs. Melissa Barbers, Route 2, care of O. F. Steenbergen, Glasgow, Ky.

New Orleans, La.—"I could not do a thing after my first boy was born. I was so weak, I had no appetite, lost weight and was not able to do my work. Clinton J. Campbell

Democratic Candidate For County Attorney

Mr Campbell believes in substituting actual law enforcement for talk about law enforcement. He says vigorous and expeditious execution of laws creates respect for law and for the office of County Attorney, whereas mere conversation, lectures and threats create contempt for law and lessen the prestige of the office.

Mr. Campbell believes that the office of County Attorney should serve the people by enforcing their laws against all violators. This means enforcement without exception or exemption. Since the law applies alike to all, it should be so enforced. Such enforcement creates the wholesome respect for law that is much needed.

CHICAGO GUNMEN KILL BOOTLEGGER

Gangsters Claim Second Victim Within Twenty-four Hours.

Obtain New Lead In the Murder Of McSwiggin and Doherty.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—A shotgun broadside split the air on a South Side residential street Friday afternoon and John "Midders" Foley, reputed bootlegger, fell dead, the second victim of gang assassins within less than twenty-four hours.

Four arrests yesterday had failed to unfold the slaying Thursday night of Milan Dylick, said to be a police informer, who was shot through the heart as he sat in his home surrounded by his wife and four children. A vendetta following a gang killing five months ago was blamed for the death of Dylick.

Foley was run down and shot to death by an automobile load of gangsters, who showed a cool disregard for chance witnesses. According to John M. Dunne, a landscape artist, three men in a green automobile hovered near the Foley home late in the morning. They returned in the afternoon and overtook Foley in his automobile about a block from his home. Foley leaped from his machine in an effort to run home but was knocked down by a shotgun volley from his pursuers. One of them ran to where the victim lay, Dunne said, and fired another charge into his head, after which all made off in their car.

Has "New Lead."

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A bartender's story of seeking two men in overalls pick up the bodies of William McSwiggin, assistant state's attorney, and James Doherty, gangster after they had been slain by machine gun fire several months ago, while riding in an automobile in Cicero, has supplied a new lead for investigators working to solve the crime, it became known yesterday.

Charles A. McDonald, special prosecutor in charge of an investigation of the crime and of vote frauds in Cook county, said he was working on a "new lead" which might result in the identification of the two men known to have been with the slain men.

SAYS FATHER NOT MURDERER

Witness Asserts Parent Of Sylvia Gaines Not Man Seen With Girl

SEATTLE, Aug 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Dorothy Stokes testified that a man she say near Sylvia Gaines, Smith college graduate, the night of June 16, when Miss Gaines was brutally slain on the margin of Green Lake, in this city, was not Wallace Cloyes Gaines, father of the dead girl, who is on trial charged with murder.

Mrs. Stokes told the jury that she remarked to her husband, "that man will get that girl."

Other witnesses had related indications that the body of the girl was dragged from the margin of the lake into the grove and declared it was stripped of clothing except for a ribbon around the neck. Miss Gaines had been choked and beaten about the head. A stained rock was found nearby.

Colorado Backing The Vice President Against Coolidge

MONTEVISTA, Colo., Aug. 7.—(AP) —Colorado is backing Vice President Charles G. Dawes against President Coolidge as a fisherman.

The vice president was given an ovation as he was escorted to the private box reserved for his party and showed great interest in the roping, riding and bulldogging events.

He plans to leave Wagon Wheel Gap nevt Thursday for his return to the east, stopping at Denver.

Mrs. Al Jolson Is Seeking Divorce

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(INS)—Mrs. Al Jolson, wife of the famous blackface comedian, has filed a suit for divorce in the Paris courts.

Mrs. Jolson asks for the separation on the usual ground known in the French legal terminology as "injure grave."

The application is supported only by a letter from Jolson refusing to resume marital relations.

Jolson will sail for the United States on the Leviathan, Tuesday, it being unnecessary for him to remain to await the judgment.

Mrs. Jolson has already returned to the United States.

The application for the divorce was filed under the comedian's real name, Asa Yoelson.

Today

$5 a Prescription.
The Animals Within Us.
Far Off? Never Mind.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Government authorities indict 27 doctors, 32 druggists.

Doctors sold whisky prescriptions to druggists at $5 each. Every three months the doctors gets 100 prescriptions from the government. Some doctors sell a whole book as cheap as $200, others got $500 for a book. The druggists sold $20 worth of whisky to a prescription.

This prescription business in New York amounts to about $15,000,000 a year. Prohibtionion is profitable, although not yet exactly practical.

A scientist says he can prove anatomically that lower animals are included in our physical makeup. They are certainly included in our spiritual machinery. One lady calls another a viper, one child calls another a pig.

In character we are as far apart as hyenas and white rabbits.

For instance, little Jimmy Mills was sexton of the Episcopal church in New Brunswick that had for pastor the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall.

The Rev. Hall knew Mrs. Mills too well. They were not cautious, and when they met under the crab apple tree somebody murdered them.

Little Jimmy Mills lost his wife, whom he liked, and now he cooks for the children. But he says, "I don't know who did it, but, whoever it was, I don't want him or her killed. The only thing that hurts my feelings is that Mrs. Hall doesn't speak to me any more."

How different from the mental attitude of the murderer or murderess that killed the clergyman and Mrs. Mills, who sang in his choir. How do you explain psychically the fact that Mrs. Hall, who lost a husband, does not speak to Jimmy Mills, who lost his wife in the same calamity?

Distance lends indifference. Three thousand Chinese are drowned by the rising of the Yangtze river, 2,000 square miles are inundated, many must starve.

But China is on the other side of the earth, so that news means little to us.

If we heard that some great body in space, billions of miles away, had been destroyed, and billions of lives wiped out, that would mean nothing at all. We are provincial.

The strange thing is that China, with half a billion population, labor costing practically nothing, has endured floods and calamities for thousands of years and never found a way to neutralize the floods.

Labor spent on the great Chinese wall to keep out barbarians, and that did not keep them out, would have made the Yangtze safe.

A British diplomat announces that in the next war not submarines, but airplanes, will terrorize commercial shipping. The order will be, "Sink at sight," and "the illegality of such attacks will be entirely immaterial."

Heaven help the nation not thoroughly protected for war. Therefore, heaven help this sleeping nation, swollen with gold, as defenseless as Persia when Alexander marched in.

CLARKE COMPANY GIVES PROGRAM

Concert Company Entertains Crowd At Epworth Assembly Friday.

The C. Edward Clarke Concert company presented a complete program of classical and secular music before a crowd of over 3,000 at the fourth night of the Epworth Assembly. Dressed in th eold fashioned Colonial costumes of a century and a half ago, with the powdered wigs, hoop skirts, knee breeches, panniered shirts, buckled shoes and lacy shirt bosoms, this company sang and played the songs of the early music masters.

The company, which has its headquarters in Chicago, is headed by C. Edward Clarke. Mr. Clarke for many years has been an ardent music student under Bouhy and Steagle and de Raezke. He has studied intensively both in the United States and abroad and has headed many companies in chautauqua and lyceum work the past years. Rachel Steinman Clarke, Polish violinist, is likewise an artist of the best preparation and international experience.

Another member of the company is Miss Edna Bradford, coloratura soprano, who delighted her audience with a charming flexible voice. She was vigorously applauded after singing, "The Last Rose of Summer." Granville English, pianist, is the other member of the company of four, and is composer of piano and vocal music. His "Sextet from Lucia, a study for the left hand, was very well received by the audience.

Mr. Clarke announced the numbers which were interspersed by short readings and liberal encores. The complete evening program was as follows:

INTENSE HEAT WAVE BROKEN

Cooling Breezes Relieve Intense Suffering In Middlewest.

Seventeen Deaths In Chicago Caused By High Temperatures.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Old man humidity, who for two days has been able to make the middlewest believe the mercury was well over the hundred mark when it was only in the eighties and nineties, bade a lingering farewell Friday while the weather bureau forecaster rose to predict ideal weather for the weekend.

In Chicago the mercury went up to 85. Two more deaths were reported for the three day hot period increasing the total fatalities attributed to the heat here to seventeen.

Throughout the middlewest the heat was again general with many towns reporting near 100 degrees. At Peoria a heavy storm early yesterday did considerable damage and was believed to have caused the death of one man.

Mercury Hits 100.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Cooling breezes and scattered showers tempered the heat wave in many sections of the middlewest and southwest Friday, although in portions of Kansas and Oklahoma, the mercury again climbed over the century mark.

Relatively high temperatures continued in the central valley states with oppressive humidity, but it was predicted that cooling northwesterly winds today will break the heat wave, which in two days took a toll of fifteen lives.

After a night which drove thousands of sufferers into the parks in Kansas City, fresh breezes yesterday ended the excessive heat in this vicinity. High pressure areas over the northwest where the mercury was down as low as 46 and 48, caused the drop in temperatures, the government bureau explained.

At Pittsburgh, Kas., a maximum of 102 degrees was record Friday afternoon and in Oklahoma the high temperatures were repeated. At Bartlesville, the mercury ascended to 108, two degrees higher than Thursday.

Much Water Used.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 7.—(AP)—With the mercury soaring to 98 at noon, St. Louis Friday established a record for the consumption of water when a total of 157,700,000 gallons was pumped into the mains.

Three cases of heat prostration and one of heat exhaustion were reported.

Although 98 degrees is not considered unusually hot for August, the discomfort of the day was caused by the humidity which reached 42, which Forecaster Hayes considered about 7 per cent higher than it should have been with a temperature of 98 degrees.

"Lost Will" Basis For An Attack On Hopkins Estate

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—(AP) —The Examiner says that the purported "lost will" of the late Mark Hopkins, multi-millionaire railroad builder and California pioneer, was brought to this city Wednesday night and today will become the foundation of a legal attack on the Hopkins fortune, now estimated as in excess of $300,000,000.

Allegedly the will was found recently in a deserted house near Hillsborough, N. C. It is to be filed for probate in superior court here if upheld as the genuine will of the famous member of the "Big Four" who built the Central Pacific railroad, it will divert the Hopkins fortune to 137 heirs, and upset all recognized genealogies of the Hopkins family.

Democratic Candidate For
County Attorney

Mr. Campbell believes in substituting actual law enforcement for talk about law enforcement. He says vigorous and expeditious execution of laws creates respect for law and for the office of County Attorney, whereas mere conversation, lectures and threats create contempt for law and lessen the prestige of the office.

Mr. Campbell believes that the office of County Attorney should serve the people by enforcing their laws against all violators. This means enforcement without exception or exemption. Since the law applies alike to all, it should be so enforced. Such enforcement creates the wholesome respect for law that is much needed.

Miss Ederle Not Signed For Tour

PARIS, Aug. 7—(INS)—C. C. Pyle today denied widespread rumors that he had signed up Gertrude Ederle for an exhibition tour of America, or that he would attempt to sign her up.

"I am not even interested," said Pyle, "for I have enough to handle now."

Miss Ederle Is Toast of Her Hometown Folks At Manhattan

NEW YORK, Aug. 7—(By the Associated Press.)—Gertrude Ederle was the toast of her hometown of Manhattan today.

Suffrage leaders, prominent athletics, politicians and traffic cops here and in neighboring communities admired and drew conclusions from the feat of the 19-year-old girl who was the first of her sex to swim the English channel and broke the time records of her five male predecessors.

Work at her father's sausage factory was suspended for jubilation when the news came. Miss Ederle's oldest sister, Helen, was in a New York newspaper office sending frequent bulletins to their mother at the Ederle summer home in Highland, N. J.

Mrs. Henry Ederle cried for joy when she knew her daughter had crossed the channel.

"I am the proudest mother in the world," she said, "but I knew Gertie would do it this time. Gertie is the best swimmer in the world, man or woman. But I feel sincerely sorry for Miss Clarabelle Barrett, who made such a splendid effort and failed."

Mrs. Nathan Barrett, Clarabelle's mother in Pelham, N. Y., offered Miss Ederle her congratulations and said she hoped her own daughter would not try the channel again. "What's the use?" she asked. Miss Barrett was taken from the water two miles from her goal last week after swimming 40 miles, part of the time lost in fog.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffrage leader, recalled that forty years a feminist leader said "woman's freedom would go hand in hand with her bodily strength." "The woman of today," said Mrs. Catt, "is a far better specimen physically than two generations ago and is ashamed to be ill."

Glenna Collett, national woman's golf champion, said in Providence, R. I., that "the men will have to try again to get the record back." Earlier this week Miss Collett wished that she might play golf like a man, but "this goes to show that women can even beat them if they try hard enough," she now declares.

Joseph V. McKee, acting mayor of New York and other city officials joined in formal acknowledgment of Miss Ederle's accomplishment.

Report New Note Sent to Mexico Neither Affirmed Nor Denied.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—(I. N. S.)—The state department shut up like a clam today on the report that Ambassador Sheffield in Mexico City had delivered another note to the Mexican government on the land and petroleum laws controversy.

After a number of hurried conferences among the higher officials, it was said that the department had no comment to make on the note.

The department for some time has contemplated sending another note to Mexico to clear up some of the details of land and oil dispute. About four months ago, when the last notes were exchanged, the more controversial matters were settled but some problems till remain in dispute.

American business interests have protested that the laws were confiscatory.

Sheffield leaves for home in August. He will confer with secretary Kellogg, and probably President Coolidge, on the land laws and the religious troubles in Mexico.

Missouri Golfer Captures Honors In Nebraska Open

OMAHA, Aug. 7.—(AP)—An unassuming young professional from St. Joseph, Mo., Hubert Forgey, today wore Nebraska's open golf crown.

Playing a consistent and brilliant game in the 36 holes of medal play in the second annual state open tourney over the Omaha Field club course, yesterday, Forgey turned in an impressive card of 75-74 for a total of 149, or three above par on the tricky course. His victory gave him the cash prize of $200 and took the title out of Nebraska for a second time.

James Canavan, Sioux City pro and defending champion, was only able to land thirteenth with his 157.

Cooper Tied for Fourth.

Second to the St. Joseph star came Forrest Watson, Spokane, Wash., amateur and Pacific northwest champion, who turned in a card of 75-76-151. Then came Johnny Goodman, member of Omaha's "kid threesome," who turned in a 152. Harry Cooper, Kansas City, an outstanding favorite, was tied for fourth by Gene Slattery, Omaha, 1925 Nebraska state champion, each carding 153.

Only seventeen Nebraskans, 15 from Omaha and two from Lincoln, entered yesterday's competion. The Lincoln players, Charlie Koontz, and Norman Sommers, professionals, scored cards of 165 and 161, respectively, which placed them far down the line from the prize money.

Primary Fight In Hamilton County Very Lively One

(Special to The Star.)

AURORA, Neb., Aug. 7.—Hamilton county people are smiling at reports from other parts of the state that the primary next Tuesday will be quiet. Hamilton county is fairly seething with politics. Frank E. Edgerton of Aurora is the the center of interest in his race against M. O. McLaughlin of Yorn for the republican nomination for congress.

In addition J. H. Grosvenor, candidate for lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket, has a host of friends who will not stay away from the polls. The sheriff contest is at white heat with five aspirants for the republican nomination and three entrants for the democratic nomination, the latter including J. E. Howard, present sheriff.

For county clerk there is a spirited contest waging on the republican side with a lady candidate seeking to take the honors from a male opponent. The republican race for county treasurer is attracting almost equal interest and so on down the line for the local offices. It is expected that the primary vote in the county will far surpass the total of any primary ever held here.

Miss Ederle Not Signed For Tour

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(INS)—C. C. Pyle today denied widespread rumors that he had signed up Gertrude Ederle for an exhibition tour of America, or that he would attempt to sign her up.

Miss Ederle Is Toast of Her Hometown Folks At Manhattan

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Gertrude Ederle was the toast of her hometown of Manhattan today.

Suffrage leaders, prominent athletics, politicians and traffic cops here and in neighboring communities admired and drew conclusions from the feat of the 19-year-old girl who was the first of her sex to swim the English channel and broke the time records of her five male predecessors.

Work at her father's sausage factory was suspended for jubilation when the news came. Miss Ederle's oldest sister, Helen, was in a New York newspaper office sending frequent bulletins to their mother at the Ederle summer home in Highland, N. J.

Mrs. Henry Ederle cried for joy when she knew her daughter had crossed the channel.

"I am the proudest mother in the world," she said, "but I knew Gertie would do it this time. Gertie is the best swimmer in the world, man or woman. But I feel sincerely sorry for Miss Clarabelle Barrett, who made such a splendid effort and failed."

Mrs. Nathan Barrett, Clarabelle's mother in Pelham, N. Y., offered Miss Ederle her congratulations and said she hoped her own daughter would not try the channel again. "What's the use?" she asked. Miss Barrett was taken from the water two miles from her goal last week after swimming 40 miles, part of the time lost in fog.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffrage leader, recalled that forty years a feminist leader said "woman's freedom would go hand in hand with her bodily strength." "The woman of today," said Mrs. Catt, "is a far better specimen physically than two generations ago and is ashamed to be ill."

Glenna Collett, national woman's golf champion, said in Providence, R. I., that "the men will have to try again to get the record back." Earlier this week Miss Collett wished that she might play golf like a man, but "this goes to show that women can even beat them if they try hard enough," she now declares.

Joseph V. McKee, acting mayor of New York and other city officials joined in formal acknowledgment of Miss Ederle's accomplishment.

REFUSE TO TALK ON CONTROVERSY

Report New Note Sent to Mexico Neither Affirmed Nor Denied.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—The state department shut up like a clam today on the report that Ambassador Sheffield in Mexico City had delivered another note to the Mexican government on the land and petroleum laws controversy.

After a number of hurried conferences among the higher officials, it was said that the department had no comment to make on the note.

The department for some time has contemplated sending another note to Mexico to clear up some of the details of land and oil dispute. About four months ago, when the last notes were exchanged, the more controversial matters were settled but some problems till remain in dispute.

American business interests have protested that the laws were confiscatory.

Sheffield leaves for home in August. He will confer with secretary Kellogg, and probably President Coolidge, on the land laws and the religious troubles in Mexico.

GERTRUDE EDERLE'S TRIUMPH.

Gertrude Ederle established her claim to the title of the greatest long distance swimmer in the world Friday when she conquered the British channel.

The 19-year old American girl, with the bubbling enthusiasm of youth and strength, not only accomplished a feat which no other woman has been able to do but she made the efforts of the five men, who share the same honor with her, seem trivial and puny in comparison. She slashed two hours from the record of the fastest male swimmer who braved the chill, and the tides and currents of this nineteen miles of tortured waters. She faced weather conditions no less disheartening and discouraging than those which confronted those five lion-hearted men. In one other respect, Miss Ederle's achievement was remarkable. The waters of the channel are unusually cold this year—more so than they have been for years. The temperature of the water was 61 degrees when she jumped in at Cape Griz Nez Friday morning, lower than on the occasion of any other successful swim.

Miss Ederle crossed the channel in 14 hours and 31 minutes. She left the French coast at 7:09 in the morning and climbed up on the sands of the Dover beach at 9:40 in the evening. The next best time was made by Sebastian Tiraboschi, an Italian living in Buenos Aires, who covered the distance from Calais to Dover in 16 hours and 33 minutes. Tiraboschi's swim was made under ideal weather conditions and with the temperature of the water above normal.

What Miss Ederle battled in sea conditions may be gained by the following description of one who followed in a tug:

"At the very outset conditions generally were very favorable, but ere she had reached midchannel she had encountered storm conditions and for more than half of her racking journey she battled tumultuous seas, whipped up by a gale-like adverse wind that became mountainous as she neared the British coast.

"With an amazing show of pluck and endurance atop her splendid swimming form that, from early girlhood had gained her many titles, she overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles . . . . . She smilingly, determinedly kept to her task, even when those on the accompanying official tug, the Alsace, from Boulogne. Captain Joe Corthes, implored her to give up the effort lest she pay for her gameness with her life.

"Hours before her triumphant finish, when in the Berserk seas, none but accompanying kinfolk believed she could much longer continue with any measure of safety to herself, Captain Corthes, a veteran channel mariner, who has accompanied swimmers on scores of similar attempts, and even her veteran trainer, Thomas William Burgess, the Englishman who was second to swim the channel, insisted that she be taken from the water before the waves battered her into unconsciousness.

"Such terrific seas were battering the tug that Captain Corthes had much difficulty keeping near enough to her for anyone to save her should she collapse and sink. Great waves were sweeping over the Alsace.

"Burgess who tried the channel swim thirty-two times before he succeeded, demanded she be taken from the water. He declared he would no longer accept responsibility for her safety and insisted Father Ederle sign a paper releasing him from any claim and criticism should she be lost beneath the waves.

"Ederle was adamant, however, pointing out that Trudie had yet to object to continuing on. Margaret sided with him. All others on the tug were agreed that achieving her ambition on this try was now humanly impossible. Finally someone losing his head shouted from the Alsace:

"'Come out, girl, come out!'

"Trudie, unaware of the excited debate aboard the tug heard, and turned in amazement to ask:

"'What for?'

"She were out three capable swimmers who took the water at intervals to swim beside and lend encouragement to her—first Helmy, the giant Egyptian channel aspirant; then her sister Margaret and also Lillian Cannon, the Baltimore swimmer, who swam beside her and chatted gaily. And she completely ran away from Louis Timson, an English swimmer, who had come out from Dover to cheer Trudie on.

"Both Helmy and Miss Cannon became seasick but not Gertrude."

America rejoices in the exploit of this splendid young American girl.

A year ago her effort had nearly ended in tragedy and had brought harsh criticism down on her head from the trainer who had prepared her. Even in this country she found many critics. Perhaps some of it was justified. Perhaps she was unbending to advice, headstrong, impulsive and undisciplined.

But she came through it all magnificently, showing she is made of the heroic stuff which makes great achievements such as hers possible. She was a far different swimmer than on the occasion of her first attempt. She had steeled herself for the ordeal. There was no banter, no mock lightness of mind or bearing toward the task she had set for herself. She plunged quietly into the water and never lifted her eyes from the distant shore until she had overcome all odds. And then, Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English channel, and the victor in point of time over all men who had accomplished it, showed what a real sense of sportsmanship she possesses. As she walked up the sands of Kingdom beach in the lurid glare of bonfires and the clamorous cheers of thousands, there was no gloating, no undue exultation—she was just a young girl, modest, timid of the crowds and suddenly wanting to share her happiness with her dad and her sister.

Well done, Trudie, well done!

GANG RULE A NATIONAL MENACE.

With a gang murder or two occurring at Chicago nearly every day and bombing of houses and other acts of violence at Canton, O., to intimidate public officials and others trying to find and punish the assassins of Editor Mellett, it looks as though the United States has enough of a problem on its hand in putting its own house in order, without undertaking to butt in on Mexico's religious warfare.

The prevalence of crime and lawlessness in many of our larger cities is a menace to the national welfare that cannot be overlooked nor minimized. Unless these organized rings of the underworld are broken up, their power will grow and spread and terrorism will supplant law and order. Already, there has been one double murder in Nebraska, supposedly committed by a member of one of Chicago's foreign colonies to revenge a family blood feud.

At another place in this state, some unknown group of criminals held up a crowd of men engaged in illegal gambling and while doing so shot and killed a youth who was not taking part in the games. During the past several years a number of peace officers attempting to enforce the law and make arrests in the smaller cities of Nebraska have fallen victims to gunmen.

These things come home more or less directly to all of us and show that the people of no community are safe while gangs of lawless desperadoes are allowed to exist and carry on their nefarious work in the great centers of population. The question of how to destroy these nuclei of crime is one which concerns everybody in the United States, not merely those who live in the cities where the criminal organizations maintain their headquarters.

Responsibility for such conditions rests primarily, of course, upon the citizenship of the localities that tolerate such leagues of murder. The senatorial investigation has revealed that the recent primary election at Chicago was controlled by an alliance of certain officeholding politicians with the bosses who rule the gang wards there. All of the leading candidates apparently were bidding for the support of those elements.

Is it anything to wonder at that crime flourishes and murders persist when public officials deal with the forces of vice and crime in this manner? How can it be expected that the laws will be enforced against men to whom these officials owe their jobs and their political prestige?

And yet, how much power would these gang bosses have if the decent people of Chicago were to join hands for the purpose of putting them out of business? It is because the so-called "good citizens" go to the polls at every election and meekly cast their votes for the same candidates as the gang forces support, that the deplorable state of affairs prevailing in that city continues.

LANDMARKS.

Twelve years ago last Wednesday the world war broke out.

Within the next few weeks, it is expected that a board of arbitration will be agreed upon by the surviving Romanoffs to determine final disposition of $75,000,000 now on deposit in British banks, representing the greatest fortune in the world when the first shot of that mighty conflict was fired.

Many of the members of the royal family of Russia are dead—murdered by the bolshevists in the great uprising which toppled the czar from his throne and established the greatest socialistic experiment in history. The landed estates, embracing hundreds of thousands of acres in the choicest sections of Russia, the castles and other property have all been confiscated by the soviet government. Relatives of the czar have been widely scattered, many of them in dire want through the loss of all their possessions. But division of the estate has waited until efforts were made to clear up the mystery of what happened to the daughters of the late Russian ruler, one of whom was reported to have escaped and to be living in Berlin.

No period of modern history has produced more cataclysmic results than the death struggle which opened a little over a decade ago. It remade the geography of four continents—Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. It changed the political complexion of Europe most profoundly. It swept autocrats from the pinnacles of power and riches and gave millions a voice in the conduct of their affairs which were undreamed of in 1914.

Now and then, as in the instance of this attempt to divide the remaining wealth of the Romanoff's a forgetful, busy world is reminded of the old world of twelve years ago. It was a world in which democratic ideals had little recognition among three-fourths of the world's population.

A man recently died and left a wife, a radio, a phonograph machine, a parrot and all of his money to a deaf and dumb asylum.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

CONTINUOUS SIGHING.

Miss A. wants to know what is the meaning of continuous sighing? Is it caused by the heart?

Well, Miss A., isn't it a common experience of life that the heart can cause sighing, especially in the springtime of the youth and the year? Being so preoccupied that even the process of breathing is suspended momentarily, will cause a need for oxygen, and a good deep sigh will follow with a liberal supply of it.

"The first sigh of love is the last of wisdom," Antonie Pret says. I don't believe that. It's usually the beginning of wisdom. However, I'll take you seriously, for while sighing is spoken of facetiously—I myself am guilty of it, you see—it may be a symptom of some physical disorder, as well as mental.

In sighing, there is some condition which is causing a lack of oxygen to the lungs and tissues. The common things may be an anemia from some cause, or a toxemia. Notice both of these words have the termination "emia," meaning blood. Anemia means literally without blood, the toxemia, poison in the blood. Sighing is also present in acidosis, either the profound acidosis sometimes occurring in diabetes or vomiting or diarrhea, or in the milder acidosis from wrong balance of the foods.

If I were you, I would have a physical check-up and find out the cause of your lack of oxygen.

Anti-Sterility Diets.

Mrs. D.—No, having been operated on for a hernia is not the cause of your not having a baby. As you are young and have been married only for five years, and a thorough physical examination of yourself and your husband has shown no reason why you cannot have children, you have no need for despair.

However, I suggest you adopt a baby, anyway. I don't know how it works but perhaps the happiness caused by a baby in the home is instrumental in increasing the appetite so that the diet contains a more liberal amount of fresh fruits and vegetables and milk; all high in vitamins. It has been found in animals that a vitaminless diet is productive of sterility and there are investigators who believe that there is an anti-sterility vitamin, Vitamin E.

I know personally of one woman who had been married for ten years and had no children. She adopted one and afterwards had seven of her own. I've heard of other cases.

You or your husband are not overweight? Overweight may cause sterility. If you are ovedweight, we have a booklet on the subject which you may have by sending your request accompanied by ten cents in stamps and a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask also for our article on Balanced Diet. (Allow two weeks for their receipt.)

Contracted Bladder.

Mrs. A., aged 56, has a contracted bladder, and cannot hold over two ounces of water at a time. This is exceedingly inconvenient, naturally, as she cannot leave home.

You should have a physical examination, Mrs. A., to find the cause of your condition and have treatment. The only thing that I can suggest is to have a normal diet (so that your urine won't be too acid), with liberal amounts of water, and see if you can gradually stretch the bladder by forcing yourself to wait a little longer before you pass the water.

Send for our articles on Balanced Diet and Acidosis. (For these send only a good-sized s. a. s. e. with request.)

My dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose TEN cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, NOT OVER 200 WORDS, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you invidual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE if you expect me to send you the information

Ford Merger Plan Is Given Setback

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The plan of Henry Ford for consolidating the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton and the Toledo-Detroit railroads with the Detroit & Ironton received a set-back today when examiners of the interstate commerce commission recommended that the commission dismiss the various applications on the ground the proposed consolidation not only was premature, but was not in the public interest.

DEMOCRATS RAP BUREAUCRACY

Candidates Speaking at Club Luncheon Also Stress Economy.

Several candidates for nomination talked before the Democratic Luncheon club at the Grand hotel today. The need of economy and efficiency in office and attack upon the tendency toward bureaucracy formed the central theme of the meeting. About twenty-five persons were present. Frank Mills presided.

J. C. McReynolds, candidate for state representative, was introduced and gave a short response. Frank A. Dutton, Beatrice candidate for lieutenant governor, paid a tribute to William Jennings Bryan and emphasized the need of getting back to an economical administration. His opponent, Will Brockley, was also called upon and briefly expressed his platform.

Jacob North raised the question for discussion as to what was thought of the attempt being made to establish a national bureau of education with headquarters at Washington, expressing it as his opinion that only a persistent minority favored this move. A number of persons were called upon to give their views in this matter and the sentiment seemed unapimous that it would be a serious mistake for the states to abolish any degree of control over education in favor of the federal government.

The two candidates for nomination as county attorney were present and gave short talks. Wade A. Wilson declared that the county attorney's office had been neglecting the important advisory duties which should be assumed. He expressed it as his opinion that the office should be in the county court house and that prosecution of bad check artists should be pushed vigorously.

Clinton J. Campbell stated that it was his belief that the county attorney's office was the most important office in the county because what transpires there affects the efficiency of other officials. If elected, he said he would see that the service was rendered entirely from within the office and would regard the county in the same light as a client that was entitled to the best of service.

Candidates Talk To Women Voters

The Lincoln league of Women Voters held a special meeting in the Y. W. C. A. club rooms Friday to listen to addresses by candidates in next Tuesday's primary election.

The questionaire recently compiled by the league and sent to the candidates was discussed. John H. Allen, progressive, and Fred C. Marshall, republican, candidates for congress from the first district were heard. The following legislative candidates were present: J. Lloyd McMaster, republican, 34th district; J. C. McReynolds, democrat, 35th district; Trago T. McWilliams, republican, 33rd district; Sarah T. Muir, republican, 36th district; Cal R. Phillippi, republican, 35th district; Walter B. Zimmerman, republican, 32nd district.

Mrs. W. Leroy Davis, president of the Lincoln league presided. Miss Helen Tuttle, president of the Lincoln Woman's club and Miss Mae Gund were appointed time keepers.

WHEAT, POTATOES ARE EXCELLENT IN SAND HILLS

Prospects For a Record Crop, Federal Expert Believes.

Hay Damaged In Some Sections Through Lack Of Rain.

Excellent prospects for wheat and potato crops in the sand hill regions of Nebraska are reported by A. E. Anderson, federal expert.

Following is the report.

Wheat is making record yields in northwestern Nebraska. Commercial potato yields expected to run above last year's average of 95 bushels per acre in Box Butte county. Shipments of grass fat cattle are expected to fall below last year's heavy run, depending upon prices. Movement will be later. Commercial wild hay shipments from Newport and Stuart will be 50 per cent less this year, according to a survey recently made by F. K. Reed, assistant state and federal agricultural statistician.

Wheat is yielding from 25 to 50 bushels per acre in Box Butte county and a general tone of optimism prevails. Much new land is being broken out, and will be put into wheat this fall and next spring. North of Alliance to Chadron in Dawes county and east of Chadron to Gordon in the northern part of Sheridan county wheat yields are running above the average, the average yield of wheat for these counties being estimated at 28 bushels per acre. Some fields are making 50 bushels per acre. Much of the wheat has been harvested with "combines" and more harvesters and threshers of this type have been sold in these counties this spring than the combined total sales of previous years. These counties were particularly favored with snows last winter and early spring rains which have been determining factors in increasing wheat yields. This section of the state is in a strong position this year, while crop conditions range from near failure in the central and southern parts of the state to well below normal in the eastern section.

125 Bushels To Acre.

The commercial potato acreage in Box Butte county has been reduced somewhat this year and more farmers are growing wheat. The potato acreage is estimated at 9,000 acres while last year's acreage was above the 10,000 mark. Potato growers are backed by a well-established growers association which is making potato growing a profitable enterprise for Box Butte county farmers. Although increased acreage with accompanying low prices usually follows a year of low production and correspondingly high prices, this association has followed the advice of government reports and has kept the acreage within reasonable limits. More rain is needed to insure good average yields per acre but present condition indicates that potatoes will yield an average of 125 bushels per acre compared to an average of 95 bushels in 1925. Indications point to reasonably satisfactory returns to potato growers this fall and winter.

In the strictly sand hill counties, Blaine, Thomas, Hooker and the southern part of Cherry county, considerable change has taken place in recent years. More farmers are raising corn and rye. An increasing number of hogs are being shipped from stations in these counties. Many thousands of cans of cream also are shipped each year and farmers are finding chickens and turkeys profitable. The sand hill region of Nebraska is particularly adapted to the raising of turkeys. In general, the large ranch holder is a thing of the past in thse counties and the territory is coming more into the hands of small holders with more diversified interests. Practically no cattle are on the range between Dunning and Mullen in an area extending south to the Dismal river. This land is held largely by non-resident owners. The rainfall in these areas has been sufficient and the range is green and plentiful.

In the region north of Gordon in Sheridan county much new land is being brought under cultivation and considerable flax is being grown this year. Flax is used largely as a "sod buster," but proved to be a profitable crop.

East of Gordon in the northern half of Cherry county the hay crop has been reduced considerably by lack of early spring rains. There will be some surplus hay throughout the northwest but the crop is not as abundant in Cherry county as usual. Range in northern Cherry county is not as green as that farther south and west, but the grass is of good quality and cattle pu on firmer flesh when feeding on pasture in this condition.

East of Cherry conty through Keyapaha, Brown, Rock and the western half of Holt county the summer has been dry and small grain yields are running very low. Pastures are drying up and the corn has already suffered considerable permanent damage. Unless rains come soon crop conditions in this territory will result in near failure.

The wild hay crop around Newport and Stuart in Rock and Holt counties has been decreased about 50 per cent by lack of early spring rains. These two stations usually ship about 4,000 cars of wild hay and are the world's greatest wild hay shipping points. Although yields have been greatly reduced the deficiency in cash returns is made up in part by a contract price well above last year's figure.

The movement of grass fat cattle to market, from northwestern Nebraska, will be later than last year. The better prices of a year ago started a heavy run to market in July which continued throughout the shipping season. The movement this year is not expected to be as heavy. However, any considerable increase in prices may cause a heavier shipment than is now expected. Most cattle men will be in position to hold much of their stock over if necessary. Cattle men for the most part are not on the road to prosperity. The better prices paid last year for grass fat cattle were an encouraging factor. It must not, however, be forgotten that last year was the first season of good prices since he fall of 1919. Prices will govern largely the movement of cattle to market from Nebraska's sand hill region.

CHAPTER LVI.

You're dressed," he said mechanically. "You got up and put on your clothes."

"Yes, I had to." The burning flood of power that she had sent coursing through her veins and muscles still sustained her with its mysterious potency. "Let me have . . . the paper."

Miss Laws with the supporting presence of her employer, began to recover from her crushed servility. "I tried to stop her, sir, but she wouldn't listen to a word I said."

"You may leave us alone for a few minutes, Miss Laws," Brierhalter told her, tonelessly.

"Give me that paper!" Joslyn demanded as soon as the door was closed.

He hesitated. "You won't listen to me — you won't let me guide you . . . at this time?"

Joslyn's outstretched hand, which had not fallen, was his answer. His lips were without color, were tight. From the several newspapers he detached one. Even as he handed it to her Joslyn could read the colossal black headline.

James Kelvin was dead.

Joslyn was conscious that her forehead was glistening with pinheads of sweat; her hands were cold as though all of their blood had been drained out.

The details—it was an extra edition—were necessarily brief. Shortly before 9 o'clock that night there had been the sound of several revolver shots in a Harlem side street. Persons running to the scene had found the body of James Kelvip, the famed moving picture star, wanted for the murder of Stephen Bates, already dead.

The identification of the body was positive, not only his well known features, but by papers in his pockets and marks on the clothing. There was a rumor that two men had been seen fleeing the spot, but no arrests had been made. That was all of the news, the rest beginning a hurried rehash of the Bates case and a paragraph about Kelvin's career.

"There is nothing that either of us can do now," Brierhalter said. "This thing has happened God knows how. I thought when I first read it that I might keep the news from you a long while, give you the regular editions of the papers that didn't have the news. I might have persuaded you that your were hallucinated about the newsboy crying his name in the street."

"I feel as if an iron cap that had been pressing on my skull had been removed," she said more to herself than to Brierhalter. "Well, you killed him."

The man colored down into his collar. With all of his schooled fortitude he was not, in the face of murder, invulnerable.

"That's not right, he said. "Even now I can't believe it. I can't imagine how this happened."

"Your men will tell you. He was being held, up in Harlem, and he thought he had a chance to get away. They tried to stop him, killed him. It was your order."

Joslyn spoke with psychic certainty. The fundamental facts of the tragedy bore out what she felt to be true. Jim Kelvin dead was as much a real person to Joslyn as though he were alive. She was thankful he had suffered little or no physical pain. She would, of course, never know what mental anguish he had encountered during his incarnation. But his death was too close for her to grasp fully that he was, forever, removed from her life. It would take time for that tragic fact to sink in.

It was difficult for her to associate Henry Brierhalter with the act of murder; that thing seemed to her a piece of cold brutality that had happened anonymously. With her mind she knew the truth but emotionally it left her cold. No fury, no act of vengeance wreaked upon Brierhalter could undo what had been done. What was real to her still was the memory, the feel, of Jim Kelvin's kisses, the compelling magnetism that had forever been drawing them closer and closer.

His voice was so well-remembered in her ears that she could almost hear him speaking to her. By straining, by listening with the closest attention, she might even now catch the familiar inflection. If there was pain to death it had not yet struck Joslyn; its only effect, so far as she could judge, was that of some pervading anaesthetic that numbed but did not destroy consciousness.

"Where can you go?" Brierhalter was asking her.

"I'm going away from here," she said, pulling on her gloves.

She looked at him with the curious impression that the event had poured itself into his being had diluted him until he was robbed of all potency to affect her one way or the other.

"I don't know where I am going," she said with a complete lack of interest in him or in the question he propounded. "Which way is it to the elevator?"

He loomed up in front of her, blocking her path.

"I want you to listen to me," he said. "There is a limit to what I can accomplish and a limit to what I am willing to accomplish. You know that you are perfectly free to do anything you like, don't you?"

"Yes."

"What I want to say is that while you may not believe it, I had already made up my mind to let my case with you—even before this news came out—I was going to let my case rest with you on your own desires. The idea of any mental compulsion exhausted itself while you were ill. And I had intended to do the right thing by Kelvin. Unfortunately, things worked out otherwise."

Joslyn heard him but the sound that reached her ears were mere words—not ideas. She wondered vaguely what he was trying to say and found it rather tedious listening to him.

"Can you show me the way to the elevator?" she asked with an uncomplicated desire to be gone.

"What I want to say is that you can have anything I've got and use your own judgment about whatever returns, if any, you care to make. But if you don't want to listen to that proposition, won't you let me do somethin about your going away? In your condition it's not safe."

Joslyn looked straight past him. "Why do you stand in front of me, when I want to walk out of here?" she asked with the simplicity of a child.

(To Be Continued.)

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by an Englishman as I was just leaving England.

The wife of a man was going to Australia and as her health was poor she didn't expect to return. He had been a bad husband, not as the world counts bad husbands, but as the woman knows them. He had never struck her. He had never been guilty of infidelity, but he had just treated her as a thing of naught. He had always thought of himself, not her. He had neglected her, left her lonely, failed to share his income with her. He had, in fact, done all these various things of which convention takes no notice, but which really sear women's souls and break their hearts. Like most men of his kind he liked to make a show of sentiment, so as his wife was just stepping over the gangplank, he shed a tear and said:

"Now we part, dear, forever! This is the end!"

She could just muster up sufficient strength to mutter: "Thank God."

FAINT HOPE FOR 5 ENTOMBED MEN

All Efforts To Reach Trapped Miners In Kentucky Fail.

SALEM, Ky., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Holding out the faint hope that five men entombed in a fluorspar mine, four miles south of here, are still alive after being trapped for more than 30 hours, mining engineers and rescue workers today began the slow task of drilling through 75 feet of mud in an effort to get air and food to the men.

The miners were trapped at 10 o'clock Thursday night by a "slide-in" of mud and rock and no communication has been had with them since that time.

Four of the five entombed men are married and heads of families. They are:

Roy James, George Zapillo, Randolph Cobb, U. B. Wilson and Harry Watson. Watson is unmarried.

All efforts to reach the men from the main shaft since the slide-in have been unsuccessful. The men are trapped at a point 800 feet back from the main shaft on a level 200 feet from the earth's surface.

Impossible For President To Escape World's Affairs

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 7.—No matter where President Coolidge goes he cannot, even for twenty-four hours, escape national affairs and crowds of curious constituents.

This has been most forcibly demonstrated to him in the three days he and Mrs. Coolidge have been here at his ancestral home.

Twelve miles from a railroad station, absolutely isolated from a telegraph wire, minus all of his secretaries, stenographers and clerks, the President nevertheless has been forced into commenting officially on affairs of vital national importance and has become the impersonal objective of the gaze of literally thousands of tourists. He has gone fishing only to find the stream's edge thronged with interested bystanders.

The Mexican government is involved in a controversy with the Catholic church resulting in riots and bloodshed. The American Knights of Columbus have interested themselves. Will the President comment?

Although nothing has come forward from Washington in three days, it is learned that the administration feels there should be no intervention in a purely domestic problem unless American lives and property are in danger.

Reports are current in certain quarters that Russia is willing to liquidate her debts to the United States. From a Vermont farm house emanates the word that no such proffer has reached this government; that until it does the United States has no interest in Russia; that the soviet must take the complete initiative if relations are to be resumed.

The president holds a press conference on his front porch. Fifty feet behind the little group of newspapermen are fully 250 tourists, most of them focusing cameras, a few of them straining their eyes through field glasses. A hundred automobiles are parked in a field down the road, representing nearly every state in the union.

The president comes out of the house for an inspection tour of his premises. Little throngs gape at him.

White Pine camp, two miles from the public road with the entrance guarded by stalwart state troopers, has afforded the president the only real seclusion he has known in three years. He will return there Monday.

GERTRUDE EDERLE'S TRIUMPH.

Gertrude Ederle established her claim to the title of the greatest long distance swimmer in the world Friday when she conquered the British channel.

The 19-year old American girl, with the bubbling enthusiasm of youth and strength, not only accomplished a feat which no other woman has been able to do but she made the efforts of the five men, who share the same honor with her, seem trivial and puny in comparison. She slashed two hours from the record of the fastest male swimmer who braved the chill, and the tides and currents of this nineteen miles of tortured waters. She faced weather conditions no less disheartening and discouraging than those which confronted those five lion-hearted men. In one other respect, Miss Ederle's achievement was remarkable. The waters of the channel are unusually cold this year—more so than they have been for years. The temperature of the water was 61 degrees when she jumped in at Cape Griz Nez Friday morning, lower than on the occasion of any other successful swim.

Miss Ederle crossed the channel in 14 hours and 31 minutes. She left the French coast at 7:09 in the morning and climbed up on the sands of the Dover beach at 9:40 in the evening. The next best time was made by Sebastian Tiraboschi, an Italian living in Buenos Aires, who covered the distance from Calais to Dover in 16 hours and 33 minutes. Tiraboschi's swim was made under ideal weather conditions and with the temperature of the water above normal.

What Miss Ederle battled in sea conditions may be gained by the following description of one who followed in a tug:

"At the very outset conditions generally were very favorable, but ere she had reached midchannel she had encountered storm conditions and for more than half of her racking journey she battled tumultuous seas, whipped up by a gale-like adverse wind that became mountainous as she neared the British coast.

"With an amazing show of pluck and endurance atop her splendid swimming form that, from early girlhood had gained her many titles, she overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles . . . . . She smilingly, determinedly kept to her task, even when those on the accompanying official tug, the Alsace, from Boulogne, Captain Joe Corthes, implored her to give up the effort lest she pay for her gameness with her life.

"Hours before her triumphant finish, when in the Berserk seas, none but accompanying kinfolk believed she could much longer continue with any measure of safety to herself, Captain Corthes, a veteran channel mariner, who has accompanied swimmers on scores of similar attempts, and even her veteran trainer, Thomas William Burgess, the Englishman who was second to swim the channel, insisted that she be taken from the water before the waves battered her into unconsciousness.

"Such terrific seas were battering the tug that Captain Corthes had much difficulty keeping near enough to her for anyone to save her should she collapse and sink. Great waves were sweeping over the Alsace.

"Burgess who tried the channel swim thirty-two times before he succeeded, demanded she be taken from the water. He declared he would no longer accept responsibility for her safety and insisted Father Ederle sign a paper releasing him from any claim and criticism should she be lost beneath the waves.

"Ederle was adamant, however, pointing out that Trudie had yet to object to continuing on. Margaret sided with him. All others on the tug were agreed that achieving her ambition on this try was now humanly impossible. Finally someone losing his head shouted from the Alsace:

"'Come out, girl, come out!'

"Trudie, unaware of the excited debate aboard the tug heard, and turned in amazement to ask:

"'What for?'

"She wore out three capable swimmers who took the water at intervals to swim beside and lend encouragement to her—first Helmy, the giant Egyptian channel aspirant; then her sister Margaret and also Lillian Cannon, the Baltimore swimmer, who swam beside her and chatted gaily. And she completely ran away from Louis Timson, an English swimmer, who had come out from Dover to cheer Trudie on.

"Both Helmy and Miss Cannon became seasick but not Gertrude."

America rejoices in the exploit of this splendid young American girl.

A year ago her effort had nearly ended in tragedy and had brought harsh criticism down on her head from the trainer who had prepared her. Even in this country she found many critics. Perhaps some of it was justified. Perhaps she was unbending to advice, headstrong, impulsive and undisciplined.

But she came through it all magnificently, showing she is made of the heroic stuff which makes great achievements such as hers possible. She was a far different swimmer than on the occasion of her first attempt. She had steeled herself for the ordeal. There was no banter, no mock lightness of mind or bearing toward the task she had set for herself. She plunged quietly into the water and never lifted her eyes from the distant shore until she had overcome all odds. And then, Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English channel, and the victor in point of time over all men who had accomplished it, showed what a real sense of sportsmanship she possesses. As she walked up the sands of Kingdom beach in the lurid glare of bonfires and the clamorous cheers of thousands, there was no gloating, no undue exultation—she was just a young girl, modest, timid of the crowds and suddenly wanting to share her happiness with her dad and her sister.

Well done, Trudie, well done!

GANG RULE A NATIONAL MENACE.

With a gang murder or two occurring at Chicago nearly every day and bombing of houses and other acts of violence at Canton, O., to intimidate public officials and others trying to find and punish the assassins of Editor Mellett, it looks as though the United States has enough of a problem on its hand in putting its own house in order, without undertaking to butt in on Mexico's religious warfare.

The prevalence of crime and lawlessness in many of our larger cities is a menace to the national welfare that cannot be overlooked nor minimized. Unless these organized rings of the underworld are broken up, their power will grow and spread and terrorism will supplant law and order. Already, there has been one double murder in Nebraska, supposedly committed by a member of one of Chicago's foreign colonies to revenge a family blood feud.

At another place in this state, some unknown group of criminals held up a crowd of men engaged in illegal gambling and while doing so shot and killed a youth who was not taking part in the games. During the past several years a number of peace officers attempting to enforce the law and make arrests in the smaller cities of Nebraska have fallen victims to gunmen.

These things come home more or less directly to all of us and show that the people of no community are safe while gangs of lawless desperadoes are allowed to exist and carry on their nefarious work in the great centers of population. The question of how to destroy these nuclei of crime is one which concerns everybody in the United States, not merely those who live in the cities where the criminal organizations maintain their headquarters.

Responsibility for such conditions rests primarily, of course, upon the citizenship of the localities that tolerate such leagues of murder. The senatorial investigation has revealed that the recent primary election at Chicago was controlled by an alliance of certain officeholding politicians with the bosses who rule the gang wards there. All of the leading candidates apparently were bidding for the support of those elements.

Is it anything to wonder at that crime flourishes and murders persist when public officials deal with the forces of vice and crime in this manner? How can it be expected that the laws will be enforced against men to whom these officials owe their jobs and their political prestige?

And yet, how much power would these gang bosses have if the decent people of Chicago were to join hands for the purpose of putting them out of business? It is because the so-called "good citizens" go to the polls at every election and meekly cast their votes for the same candidates as the gang forces support, that the deplorable state of affairs prevailing in that city continues.

LANDMARKS.

Twelve years ago last Wednesday the world war broke out.

Within the next few weeks, it is expected that a board of arbitration will be agreed upon by the surviving Romanoffs to determine final disposition of $75,000,000 now on deposit in British banks, representing the greatest fortune in the world when the first shot of that mighty conflict was fired.

Many of the members of the royal family of Russia are dead—murdered by the bolshevists in the great uprising which toppled the czar from his throne and established the greatest socialistic experiment in history. The landed estates, embracing hundreds of thousands of acres in the choicest sections of Russia, the castles, and other property have all been confiscated by the soviet government. Relatives of the czar have been widely scattered, many of them in dire want through the loss of all their possessions. But division of the estate has waited until efforts were made to clear up the mystery of what happened to the daughters of the late Russian ruler, one of whom was reported to have escaped and to be living in Berlin.

No period of modern history has produced more cataclysmic results than the death struggle which opened a little over a decade ago. It remade the geography of four continents—Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. It changed the political complexion of Europe most profoundly. It swept autocrats from the pinnacles of power and riches and gave millions a voice in the conduct of their affairs which were undreamed of in 1914.

Now and then, as in the instance of this attempt to divide the remaining wealth of the Romanoff's a forgetful, busy world is reminded of the old world of twelve years ago. It was a world in which democratic ideals had little recognition among three-fourths of the world's population.

A man recently died and left a wife, a radio, a phonograph machine, a parrot and all of his money to a deaf and dumb asylum.

Diet and Health
By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

CONTINUOUS SIGHING.

Miss A. wants to know what is the meaning of continuous sighing? Is it caused by the heart?

Well, Miss A., isn't it a common experience of life that the heart can cause sighing, especially in the springtime of the youth and the year? Being so preoccupied that even the process of breathing is suspended momentarily, will cause a need for oxygen, and a good deep sigh will follow with a liberal supply of it.

"The first sigh of love is the last of wisdom," Antonie Pret says. I don't believe that. It's usually the beginning of wisdom. However, I'll take you seriously, for while sighing is spoken of facetiously—I myself am guilty of it, you see—it may be a symptom of some physical disorder, as well as mental.

In sighing, there is some condition which is causing a lack of oxygen to the lungs and tissues. The common things may be an anemia from some cause, or a toxemia. Notice both of these words have the termination "emia," meaning blood. Anemia means literally without blood, the toxemia, poison in the blood. Sighing is also present in acidosis, either the profound acidosis sometimes occurring in diabetes or vomiting or diarrhea, or in the milder acidosis from wrong balance of the foods.

If I were you, I would have a physical check-up and find out the cause of your lack of oxygen.

Anti-Sterility Diets.

Mrs. D.—No, having been operated on for a hernia is not the cause of your not having a baby. As you are young and have been married only for five years, and a thorough physical examination of yourself and your husband has shown no reason why you cannot have children, you have no need for despair.

However, I suggest you adopt a baby, anyway. I don't know how it works but perhaps the happiness caused by a baby in the home is instrumental in increasing the appetite so that the diet contains a more liberal amount of fresh fruits and vegetables and milk; all high in vitamins. It has been found in animals that a vitaminless diet is productive of sterility and there are investigators who believe that there is an anti-sterility vitamin, Vitamin E.

I know personally of one woman who had been married for ten years and had no children. She adopted one and afterwards had seven of her own. I've heard of other cases.

You or your husband are not overweight? Overweight may cause sterility. If you are ovedweight, we have a booklet on the subject which you may have by sending your request accompanied by ten cents in stamps and a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ask also for our article on Balanced Diet. (Allow two weeks for their receipt.)

Contracted Bladder.

Mrs. A., aged 56, has a contracted bladder, and cannot hold over two ounces of water at a time. This is exceedingly inconvenient, naturally, as she cannot leave home.

You should have a physical examination, Mrs. A., to find the cause of your condition and have treatment. The only thing that I can suggest is to have a normal diet (so that your urine won't be too acid), with liberal amounts of water, and see if you can gradually stretch the bladder by forcing yourself to wait a little longer before you pass the water.

Send for our articles on Balanced Diet and Acidosis. (For these send only a good-sized s. a. s. e. with request.)

My dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose TEN cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, NOTOVER 200 WORDS, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you invidual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE if you expect me to send you the information

Ford Merger Plan Is Given Setback

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—(INS)—The plan of Henry Ford for consolidating the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton and the Toledo-Detroit railroads with the Detroit & Ironton received a set-back today when examiners of the interstate commerce commission recommended that the commission dismiss the various applications on the ground the proposed consolidation not only was preature, but was not in the public interest.

DEMOCRATS RAP BUREAUCRACY

Candidates Speaking at Club Luncheon Also Stress Economy.

Several candidates for nomination talked before the Democratic Luncheon club at the Grand hotel today. The need of economy and efficiency in office and attack upon the tendency toward bureaucracy formed the central theme of the meeting. About twenty-five persons were present. Frank Mills presided.

J. C. McReynolds, candidate for state representative, was introduced and gave a short response. Frank A. Dutton, Beatrice candidate for lieutenant governor, paid a tribute to William Jennings Bryan and emphasized the need of getting back to an economical administration. His opponent, Will Brookley, was also called upon and briefly expressed his platform.

Jacob North raised the question for discussion as to what was thought of the attempt being made to establish a national bureau of education with headquarters at Washington, expressing it as his opinion that only a persistent minority favored this move. A number of persons were called upon to give their views in this matter and the sentiment seemed unanimous that it would be a serious mistake for the states to abolish any degree of control over education in favor of the federal government.

The two candidates for nomination as county attorney were present and gave short talks. Wade A. Wilson declared that the county attorney's office had been neglecting the important advisory duties which should be assumed. He expressed it as his opinion that the office should be in the county court house and that prosecution of bad check artists should be pushed vigorously.

Clinton J. Campbell stated that it was his belief that the county attorney's office was the most important office in the county because what transpires there affects the efficiency of other officials. If elected, he said he would see that the service was rendered entirely from within the office and would regard the county in the same light as a client that was entitled to the best of service.

Candidates Talk To Women Voters

The Lincoln league of Women Voters held a special meeting in the Y. W. C. A. club rooms Friday to listen to addresses by candidates in next Tuesday's primary election.

The questionaire recently compiled by the league and sent to the candidates was discussed. John H. Allen, progressive, and Fred C. Marshall, republican, candidates for congress from the first district were heard. The following legislative candidates were present: J. Lloyd McMaster, republican, 34th district; J. C. McReynolds, democrat, 35th district; Trago T. McWilliams, republican, 33rd district; Sarah T. Muir, republican, 36th district; Cal R. Phillippi, republican, 35th district; Walter B. Zimmerman, republican, 32nd district.

Mrs. W. Leroy Davis, president of the Lincoln league presided. Miss Helen Tuttle, president of the Lincoln Woman's club and Miss Mae Gund were appointed time keepers.

WHEAT, POTATOES ARE EXCELLENT IN SAND HILLS

Prospects For a Record Crop, Federal Expert Believes.

Hay Damaged In Some Sections Through Lack Of Rain.

Excellent prospects for wheat and potato crops in the sand hill regions of Nebraska are reported by A. E. Anderson, federal expert.

Following is the report.

Wheat is making record yields in northwestern Nebraska. Commercial potato yields expected to run above last year's average of 95 bushels per acre in Box Butte county. Shipments of grass fat cattle are expected to fall below last year's heavy run, depending upon prices. Movement will be later. Commercial wild hay shipments from Newport and Stuart will be 50 per cent less this year, according to a survey recently made by F. K. Reed, assistant state and federal agricultural statistician.

Wheat is yielding from 25 to 50 bushels per acre in Box Butte county and a general tone of optimism prevails. Much new land is being broken out, and will be put into wheat this fall and next spring. North of Alliance to Chadron in Dawes county and east of Chadron to Gordon in the northern part of Sheridan county wheat yields are running above the average, the average yield of wheat for these counties being estimated at 28 bushels per acre. Some fields are making 50 bushels per acre. Much of the wheat has been harvested with "combines" and more harvesters and threshers of this type have been sold in these counties this spring than the combined total sales of previous years. These counties were particularly favored with snows last winter and early spring rains which have been determining factors in increasing wheat yields. This section of the state is in a strong position this year, while crop conditions range from near failure in the central and southern parts of the state to well below normal in the eastern section.

125 Bushels To Acre.

The commercial potato acreage in Box Butte county has been reduced somewhat this year and more farmers rae growing wheat. The potato acreage is estimated at 9,000 acres while last year's acreage was above the 10,000 mark. Potato growers are backed by a well-established growers association which is making potato growing a profitable enterprise for Box Butte county farmers. Although increased acreage with accompanying low prices usually follows a year of low production and correspondingly high prices, this association has followed the advice of government reports and has kept the acreage within reasonable limits. More rain is needed to insure good average yields per acre but present condition indicates that potatoes will yield an average of 125 bushels per acre compared to an average of 95 bushels in 1925. Indications point to reasonably satisfactory returns to potato growers this fall and winter.

In the strictly sand hill counties, Blaine, Thomas, Hooker and the southern part of Cherry county, considerable change has taken place in recent years. More farmers are raising corn and rye. An increasing number of hogs are being shipped from stations in these counties. Many thousands of cans of cream also are shipped each year and farmers are finding chickens and turkeys profitable. The sand hill region of Nebraska is particularly adapted to the raising of turkeys. In general, the large ranch holder is a thing of the past in these counties and the territory is coming more into the hands of small holders with more diversified interests. Practically no cattle are on the range between Dunning and Mullen in an area extending south to the Dismal river. This land is held largely by non-resident owners. The rainfall in these areas has been sufficient and the range is green and plentiful.

In the region north of Gordon in Sheridan county much new land is being brought under cultivation and considerable flax is being grown this year. Flax is used largely as a "sod buster," but proved to be a profitable crop.

East of Gordon in the northern half of Cherry county the hay crop has been reduced considerably by lack of early spring rains. There will be some surplus hay throughout the northwest but the crop is not as abundant in Cherry county as usual. Range in northern Cherry county is not as green as that farther south and west, but the grass is of good quality and cattle pu on firmer flesh when feeding on pasture in this condition.

East of Cherry conty through Keyapaha, Brown, Rock and the western half of Holt county the summer has been dry and small grain yields are running very low. Pastures are drying up and the corn has already suffered considerable permanent damage. Unless rains come soon crop conditions in this territory will result in near failure.

The wild hay crop around Newport and Stuart in Rock and Holt counties has been decreased about 50 per cent by lack of early spring rains. These two stations usually ship about 4,000 cars of wild hay and are the world's greatest wild hay shipping points. Although yields have been greatly reduced the deficiency in cash returns is made up in part by a contract price well above last year's figure.

The movement of grass fat cattle to market, from northwestern Nebraska, will be later than last year. The better prices of a year ago started a heavy run to market in July which continued throughout the shipping season. The movement this year is not expected to be as heavy. However, any considerable increase in prices may cause a heavier shipment than is now expected. Most cattle men will be in position to hold much of their stock over if necessary. Cattle men for the most part are not on the road to prosperity. The better prices paid last year for grass fat cattle were an encouraging factor. It must not, however, be forgotten that last year was the first season of good prices since he fall of 1919. Prices will govern largely the movement of cattle to market from Nebraska's sand hill region.

CHAPTER LVI.

You're dressed," he said mechanically. "You got up and put on your clothes."

"Yes, I had to." The burning flood of power that she had sent coursing through her veins and muscles still sustained her with its mysterious potency. "Let me have . . . the paper."

Miss Laws with the supporting presence of her employer, began to recover from her crushed servility. "I tried to stop her, sir, but she wouldn't listen to a word I said."

"You may leave us alone for a few minutes, Miss Laws," Brierhalter told her, tonelessly.

"Give me that paper!" Joslyn demanded as soon as the door was closed.

He hesitated. "You won't listen to me — you won't let me guide you . . . at this time?"

Joslyn's outstretched hand, which had not fallen, was his answer. His lips were without color, were tight. From the several newspapers he detached one. Even as he handed it to her Joslyn could read the colossal black headline.

James Kelvin was dead.

Joslyn was conscious that her forehead was glistening with pinheads of sweat; her hands were cold as though all of their blood had been drained out.

The details—It was an extra edition—were necessarily brief. Shortly before 9 o'clock that night there had been the sound of several revolver shots in a Harlem side street. Persons running to the scene had found the body of James Kelvin, the famed moving picture star, wanted for the murder of Stephen Bates, already dead.

The identification of the body was positive, not only his well known features, but by papers in his pockets and marks on the clothing. There was a rumor that two men had been seen fleeing the spot, but no arrests had been made. That was all of the news, the rest beginning a hurried rehash of the Bates case and a paragraph about Kelvin's career.

"There is nothing that either of us can do now," Brierhalter said. "This thing has happened God knows how. I thought when I first read it that I might keep the news from you a long while, give you the regular editions of the papers that didn't have the news. I might have persuaded you that your were hallucinated about the newsboy crying his name in the street."

"I feel as if an iron cap that had been pressing on my skull had been removed," she said more to herself than to Brierhalter. "Well, you killed him."

The man colored down into his collar. With all of his schooled fortitude he was not, in the face of murder, invulnerable.

"That's not right, he said. "Even now I can't believe it. I can't imagine how this happened."

"Your men will tell you. He was being held, up in Harlem, and he thought he had a chance to get away. They tried to stop him, killed him. It was your order."

Joslyn spoke with psychic certainty. The fundamental facts of the tragedy bore out what she felt to be true. Jim Kelvin dead was as much a real person to Joslyn as though he were alive. She was thankful he had suffered little or no physical pain. She would, of course, never know what mental anguish he had encountered during his incarnation. But his death was too close for her to grasp fully that he was, forever, removed from her life. It would take time for that tragic fact to sink in.

It was difficult for her to associate Henry Brierhalter with the act of murder; that thing seemed to her a piece of cold brutality that had happened anonymously. With her mind she knew the truth but emotionally it left her cold. No fury, no act of vengeance wreaked upon Brierhalter could undo what had been done. What was real to her still was the memory, the feel, of Jim Kelvin's kisses, the compelling magnetism that had forever been drawing them closer and closer.

His voice was so well-remembered in her ears that she could almost hear him speaking to her. By straining, by listening with the closest attention, she might even now catch the familiar inflection. If there was pain to death it had not yet struck Joslyn; its only effect, so far as she could judge, was that of some pervading anaesthetic that numbed but did not destroy consciousness.

"Where can you go?" Brierhalter was asking her.

"I'm going away from here," she said, pulling on her gloves.

She looked at him with the curious impression that the event had poured itself into his being had diluted him util he was robbed of all potency to affect her one way or the other.

"I don't know where I am going," she said with a complete lack of interest in him or in the question he propounded. "Which way is it to the elevator?"

He loomed up in front of her, blocking her path.

"I want you to listen to me," he said. "There is a limit to what I can accomplish and a limit to what I am willing to accomplish. You know that you are perfectly free to do anything you like, don't you?"

"Yes."

"What I want to say is that, while you may not believe it, I had already made up my mind to let my case with you—even before this news came out—I was going to let my case rest with you on your own desires. The idea of any mental compulsion exhausted itself while you were ill. And I had intended to do the right thing by Kelvin. Unfortunately, things worked out otherwise."

Joslyn heard him but the sounds that reached her ears were mere words—not ideas. She wondered vaguely what he was trying to say and found it rather tedious listening to him.

"Can you show me the way to the elevator?" she asked with an uncomplicated desire to be gone.

"What I want to say is that you can have anything I've got and use your own judgment about whatever returns, if any, you care to make. But if you don't want to listen to that proposition, won't you let me do somethin about your going away? In your condition it's not safe."

Joslyn looked straight past him. "Why do you stand in front of me, when I want to walk out of here?" she asked with the simplicity of a child.

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by an Englishman as I was just leaving England.

The wife of a man was going to Australia and as her health was poor she didn't expect to return. She had been a bad husband, not as the world counts bad husbands, but as the woman knows them. He had never struck her. He had never been guilty of infidelity, but he had just treated her as a thing of naught. He had always thought of himself, not her. He had neglected her, left her lonely, failed to share his income with her. He had, in fact, done all these various things of which convention takes no notice, but which really sear women's souls and break their hearts. Like most men of his kind he liked to make a show of sentiment, so as his wife was just stepping over the gangplank, he shed a tear and said:

"Now we part, dear, forever! This is the end!"

She could just muster up sufficient strength to mutter: "Thank God."

FAINT HOPE FOR 5 ENTOMBED MEN

All Efforts To Reach Trapped Miners In Kentucky Fail.

SALEM, Ky., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Holding out the faint hope that five men entombed in a fluorspar mine, four miles south of here, are still alive after being trapped for more than 30 hours, mining engineers and rescue workers today began the slow task of drilling through 75 feet of mud in an effort to get air and food to the men.

The miners were trapped at 10 o'clock Thursday night by a "slide-in" of mud and rock and no communication has been had with them since that time.

Four of the five entombed men are married and heads of families. They are:

Roy James, George Zapillo, Randolph Cobb, U. B. Wilson and Harry Watson. Watson is unmarried.

All efforts to reach the men from the main shaft since the slide-in have been unsuccessful. The men are trapped at a point 500 feet back from the main shaft on a level 150 feet from the earth's surface.

Impossible For President To Escape World's Affairs

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 7.—No matter where President Coolidge goes he cannot, even for twenty-four hours, escape national affairs and crowds of curious constituents.

This has been most forcibly demonstrated to him in the three days he and Mrs. Coolidge have been here at his ancestral home.

Twelve miles from a railroad station, absolutely isolated from a telegraph wire, minus all of his secretaries, stenographers and clerks, the President nevertheless has been forced into commenting officially on affairs of vital national importance and has become the impersonal objective of the gaze of literally thousands of tourists. He has gone fishing only to find the stream's edge thronged with interested bystanders.

The Mexican government is involved in a controversy with the Catholic church resulting in riots and bloodshed. The American Knights of Columbus have interested themselves. Will the President comment?

Although nothing has come forward from Washington in three days, it is learned that the administration feels there should be no intervention in a purely domestic problem unless American lives and property are in danger.

Reports are current in certain quarters that Russia is willing to liquidate her debts to the United States. From a Vermont farm house emanates the word that no such proffer has reached this government; that until it does the United States has no interest in Russia; that the soviet must take the complete initiative if relations are to be resumed.

The president holds a press conference on his front porch. Fifty feet behind the little group of newspapermen are fully 250 tourists, most of them focusing cameras, a few of them straining their eyes through field glasses. A hundred automobiles are parked in a field down the road, representing nearly every state in the union.

The president comes out of the house for an inspection tour of his premises. Little throngs gape at him.

White Pine camp, two miles from the public road with the entrance guarded by stalwart state troopers, has afforded the president the only real seclusion he has known in three years. He will return there Monday.

Community Picnic For Butler County Largely Attended

(Special to The Star.)

DAVID CITY, Neb., Aug. 7.—About 5,000 people attended the fourth annual Butler county picnic and old settler's reunion held at the David City park Thursday. An interesting program held the people throughout the day.

Frank E. Sorenson of Aurora gave the address, the Martha Randall troupe of dancers and the Harmonic Trio, who have recently returned west coast, furnished entertainment and the David City band played.

Sports of all kinds were on the program. In the county horseshoe pitching championship, Herbert Treadway won for the second consecutive year. This entitles him to possession of the loving cup presented to the winner in this sport. Rising City trounced Ulysses by a score of 11 to 5 in a ball game. Two dances were on the program, one in the afternoon and evening.

All the stands and concession on the grounds reported a big day. No accidents were reported, in spite of the heavy automobile traffic, which was expertly handled. The picnic was under the auspices of the David City commercial club.

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., Aug. 7.—Representatives of the Nebraska Gas and Electric company met with the business men of this city at the regular meeting of the Public Service club to present their operating methods and outline their present distribution in this part of the state.

The Nebraska company had made previously a proposition to the council of this city to furnish current cheaper than the present municipal plant is making it, and the service club meeting was for the purpose of amplifying the proposition and explaining the different proposals of the company.

An accountant retained by the Nebraska corporation is making an inventory of the municipal plant equipment for the purpose of submitting the plant value figures to the company in case it desires to submit a bid for outright purchase of the existent equipment.

Patz After "No-Fund" Check Writers

Says he will help stop this menace.

It is the duty of the County Attorney to vigorously prosecute any who violate the "no-fund" check law. This should be done without any hesitancy on the part of the County Attorney if we are to find relief from this menace.

L. J. Patz, Lincoln lawyer, has promised to make this county unpopular for "no-fund" check artists, and should receive the loyal support of those interested in accomplishing this result.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.

The motor stocks and specialties were ready to resume their forward movement in the market today. The motor stocks received the most attention, though New York Central, Atchison and other high grade rails were well bought at peak prices.

Another aggressive rally was staged in General Motors, in the course of which the stock moved up 5 points to above 212 in the first hour. United States Steel gained more than a point on heavy buying at slightly higher price levels.

A strong demand developed for the stocks of the amusement and theatrical companies as a result of the enthusiastic comments on the successful showing of the Vitaphone on Broadway. Warner Brothers Pictures, Class A, jumped 8 points to 28⅛, while Famous Players, Pathe, Fox Class A, and Shubert sold up about a point on the average.

The balance of the market was quiet and featureless. New York Central and Atchison repeated yesterday's performance by reaching new high record prices for all time, the former above 138 and the latter above 142. Oil stocks were steady though inactive. Mercantile stocks and tobacco stocks carried their late rallies to slightly higher prices. Commodity and investment markets were inacive and price movemens narrow.

Indusrial stocks moved forward briskly in the final period under the lead of General Motors and United States Steel. Numerous specialty stocks rose buoyantly in this period, recording the best prices of the week. Continental Motors featured the low priced motor stocks and sold in large volume above 12. Oils were unsettled near the close.

Bond prices were firm in narrow trading in the listed bond market today. French government issues recovered all of Friday's late losses and sold more than a point higher for the 8's and fractionally higher for the 7's and 7½'s. Belgian government 7½'s gained a point at 108¼.

Prime industrial and railroad bonds showed little change. Liberty bonds were unusually quiet and prices were unchanged.

Motor stocks, industrial and specialties advanced in good form at the opening of the stock market today. Warner Brother Pictures A jumped 3½ to 23⅝ on reports of the success of the first showing of the Vitaphone; General Motors sold up 1⅜ at 209; Hudson Motors was up 1¼ at 72¼; Safety Razor up ¾ at 69¼; Marland Oil up ⅝ at 60, Famous Players up ½ at 119⅜. The rails were inactive and steady, with new York Central and Southern Pacific unchanged.

Stock prices displayed a firm tone at the opening of today's arket. Large buying orders were distributed among the motors an dspecialties. Initial gains of a point or more being recarded by General Motors, Hudson Motors, Remington Typewriter, International Telephone and Case Threshing Machine. New 1926 peak prices were established in the first few minutes of trading by American Safety Razor, Union Carbide and Butterick Publishing.

Stock sales on the floor of the New York stock exchange today totaled 978,700; bonds, $3,737,000.

Stock sales for the week totaled 12,132,200; bonds, $46,709,000.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dun's today says:

"The present comparative activity of business during what is normally the quietest period of the year continues to attract attention. Mid-August is not the time to expect commercial expansion, yet evidences of it appear now in some channels and the position of different sellers has been visibly strengthened. After eight consective months of decline Dun's price index number is at the lowest point since the spring of 1924; but the latest recessiin is very slight and occurred entirely in foodstuffs.

The downward course of markets, some important commodities has been checked recently and various buyers, those adhering closely to a conservative policy have shown less hesitation in their operation. With general trade disclosing more vigor than had been anticipated earlier in the year, commitments are being made now with increased confidence and optimism regarding fall prospects is the ruling sentiment. Weekly bank clearings, $9,349,166,000.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The opinion in some quarters is that wheat will not do much either way for the present, most probably until after the government report Tuesday.

Yesterday's reports were of better conditions in the Canadian province. There were rains and cooler weather.

The annual controversy over Russian crop conditions has been revived. Reports are meager, but some traders insist the crop cannot be as large as represented by some advices.

There has been considerable posting of corn here as out of condition. More than 100,000 bushels were so listed by one elevator yesterday.

Favorable corn reports come in from Illinois and Iowa. From Kansas, however, the market hears that corn has been hurt by drouth and heat.

Observers say the past few days torridness probably did little, if any, damage to the central states corn. It was known to be far behind, and needing rapid approach to maturity to get ahead of the frost. Oats and rye continue to act in sympathy wit hthe leader neither showing much activity. There is some talk of a bullish outlook for the oats crop.

The Modern Miller says:

"Scattered showers and more moderate temperatures have proved of aid to the Canadian wheat crop during the week. The crop is spotted. Cutting and threshing of spring wheat is progressing with yields in the early sections below average. Most of the winter wheat threshing is completed and large yields continue as operations extend north."

Caandian Pacific railroad bulleton says:

"Manitoba promising yield better than average, cutting general about 10th. Saskatchewan spotted, extremely difficult to estimate, cutting general about 15th. Alberta, with favorable conditions from now to harvest will have more than last year, cutting general about 16th."

Van Deusen-Harrington crop report says:

"A large part of the northwest is in need of moisture. Harvesting of spring wheat is quite general, although some of the late wheat will not be out for ten days or two weeks.

Farmers in central Illinois still have one-half of the saleable crop of 1915 in the opinion of a Bloomington, Ill., banker who keeps a close check on farming operations. If this is correct a heavy run of corn from that section is expected as small grains are threshed. Incidentally prices for corn are now much better than when a large part of the early sales were made.

Mills are eagerly seeking dry carloads of hard winter wheat here now that a larger amount of the current arrivals are showing a higher moisture conduct. The mills are paying a premium for the dry wheat.

Primary receipts of wheat Friday were 2,954,000 bushels, week ago 3,900,000, year ago, 1,688,000.

Liverpool wheat is due 3-4 to 1c lower today, based on action of the Chicago market yesterday.

Grain futures purchases August 5th were: wheat, 35,627,000 bushels; corn, 11,375,000; oats, 4,579,000; rye, 1,211,000; total 52,792,000 bushels.

INTERURBAN PLANS TO USE MOTOR BUSSES

in a loop from Fourteenth and R streets west to Twelfth street, then south to P street past the chamber of commerce building, and then east to Fourteenth and P street. From that point the route would follow Fourteenth street north to Vine, then east on Vine to Twenty-first street, north on Twenty-first street to Y street; east on Y to Twenty-seventh street, north on Twenty-seventh to Orchard street, east on Orchard street to Idylwild drive, north on Idylwild Drive to Holdrege, and east on Holdrege to Fortieth street.

The route through University Place will be as follows: Commencing at the north limits of University Place at the Warren avenue intersection, south along Warren avenue to Holdrege or Seventh street, and west along Holdrege to Fortieth street or the western limits of University Place.

The bus service would commence in University Place at 6:30 every morning and would continue every thirty minutes until 11 p. m.

A ten-cent fare is proposed for bus passengers, compared with seven cents now being charged on the company's electric interurban cars. The company does not request any increase in fare for the street car line.

In its application to the city, the company asks that in the event any of the stretes are closed along this proposed route the company will be permitted to operate over such other street as may be necesary to complete its service during the time the street is blocked.

Mayor is Favorable.

The attitud eof the city council toward the proposal of the Omaha, Lincoln and Beatrice Railway company's proposal will ndoubtedly be favorable. Mayor Zehrung expresed himself as being in favor of the plan, after it had been presented him by Mr. Bramlette this morning.

Mayor Zehrung has filed an amendment to the city ordinance which provides that every motor bus operating as a part of the street railway system shall pay an occupation tax on gross revenue as is done by the street railway system, and shall be exempt from license and bond as provided in the ordinance. This will be presented to the council for action next Monday in connection with the Traction company's application for permission to substitute bus service on the South Fourteenth street line. This proposed amendment, however, was drawn up with only the Traction company's application in mind. Both matters will probably be taken up for discussion at next week's meeting of the council.

This new supplemental bus service has been planned in such a way that it will provide unusually good transportation service for university students who must make trips from the city campus to the agricultural college. They will be able to take a bus at Twelfth and R street and be delivered in front of the agricultural college campus. At the same time the electric car service will be available for use by the students.

The residents in Northeast Lincoln will also benefit by having another line of transportation within easy reach. Although the bus route will follow the general course of the car line, there are numerous places where the distance from the residences to lines will be considerably lessened, Mr. Bramlette said.

Charleston Champ Dances Away From "No Fund" Charge

Napoleon Littlefield, colored, onetime Charleston champion of this vicinity, is out again, after being in again Friday night.

Littlefield, arrested on a no-fund check charge, did a fade-away Saturday morning when he and R. L. Null, on whom a bad check is alleged to have been passed by Napoleon, went to the negro's former employer to collect some money to pay Mr. Null.

The colored man was arrested Friday after he is said to have attempted to pass a bad check at Salem's, Nineteenth and O streets, in payment for two ice cream cones. He and Mr. Null agreed Saturday morning to fix up their differences, and Napoleon was to get the money at the hotel where he was once employed.

Napoleon entered the hotel, but did not come out. Police are searching for him.

LELAND WOOD KILLED IN FALL FROM PRECIPICE

honors from the University School of Music where he graduated in 1925 ,and Phi Beta Kappa honors from the state university the same year. For the past year he has been an instructor in violin at the school of music and also played first violin at the Lyric theater.

For several years he has played obligatos for vocalists at special programs all over the city. His teacher, Prof. Carl Frederic Steckleberg, described him as a "young man with a brilliant record and a promising future." All his musical instruction had been received in Lincoln.

He started playing the violin before he entered high school. Progressing quickly, he soon advanced to concert master of the high school orchestra here. In the university, he played first violin in the orchestra and had also been concert master of the University school of music orchestra the past year.

He left for a vacation about two weeks ago with his mother Mrs. Minnie L. Wood, 2910 Vine street, and his sister, Velma. His early life was spent on a farm out in the state. After the death of his father, with his mother and sister, he moved to Lincoln where he has lived ever since.

Besides being a fine violinist, he was also a capable pianist, said Adrian Newens, president of the University School of Music. Mr. Wood also belonged to the local chapter of the Sinfonia musical society and for the past year was treasurer of that organization. Not long ago he went to Chicago and played before Prof. Auer, the famous violinist who also declared he showed great ability and advised further study. After the coming term at the school of music, he planned to take a course of study under Prof. Auer in Chicago .

The body of Leland Wood arrived in Lincoln at 1:35 Saturday afternoon and was taken to Hodgman's pending funeral arrangements.

Rev. Earl E. Harper's discussion was on the liturgy of the Methodist church. He believes that the worship of the church should be much more solemn with a much greater participation by the people. He also declared that it was a necessary thing today fo rchoirs to be vested and for the minister to wear a robe.

The ideal service of worship as recommended by Rev. Harper will be carried out in the Sunday morning service at Epworth park. With a twenty-five minute sermon, this complete worship will take about one hour and twenty minutes. The idea of making announcements in the service of worship was condemned by Rev. Harper. He feels that the offering should merely be a substitute for a holy communion service.

Prof. A. T. Robertson gave his fourth exposition on the First Epistle of Peter taking the subject "Reciprocity" for his subject and his text from the third chapter, verses one to twelve.

Besides the Foreign Missionary program Saturday afternoon the Elwyn players presented the play, "Her Temporary Husband," a Broadway comedy. The play contains a bright, sparkling plot with humorous situations and clevely-written lines. This evening they will give the play, "Thank You."

Former Lincoln Woman Is Dead

Word has been received in Lincoln of the death of Mrs. A. M. Chase at Riverside, Cal., July 31. Mrs. Chase, and her husband, were among the early residents of Lincoln, coming here in the early seventies from North Adams, Mass. They resided in Lincoln for years. Mr. Chase was in the real estate business.

Mrs. Chase passed away at the home of her daughter. Mrs. Albert Huff, in Riverside, according to word reaching friends here. She leaves a son, Roscoe of Chicago, Eva of Riverside, Cal., and Mrs. Huff of the same city. She had three grand children.

MISS EDERLE WINS FAME AS A SWIMMER

"I am a proud woman," she declared simply.

Notwithstanding the long time she had been in the water, Miss Ederle required no asistance when she landed. She even desired to take to the water again and swim out to the tug which had convoyed her across from France. She was advised not to do this, however, and entering a motorboat she was taken out to the tug and started back for France.

A Determined Girl.

When she took to the water early Friday morning grim determination was written on the face of the American girl to acomplish the task she had set for herself. With her body thickly covered with grease so that she might be able to withstand the chill of the water, Miss Ederle started off with her easy, long swimming crawl which won for her world records. Her arms rose and fell rythmically at 28 to 30 strokes to the minute as she cut through the water In the first five hours she was nine miles out in the channel. The wind was kicking up somewhat choppy seas. They seemingly did not deter her, for she kept steadily on, notwithstanding an adverse tide.

Meets Heavy Seas.

As the swimmer approached the shores of England she met with the worst conditions on the trip. The breeze churned up heavy seas and there was some rain. But still she kept on. As she passed the Goodwin sands lightship she was swimming strongly toward her goal, only six miles away. At 9 p. m. she was two miles out from shore, plugging along with a determination to finish her task. The bonfires and searchlights showed her the way, and forty minutes later she walked up the beach amid the cheers of the people from the surrounding resorts with the honor of being the first woman to swim the English chaneel.

Was Sixth Person.

Gertrude Ederle is the sixth person to swim the channel. The five others were men. Her time of 14 hours 31 minutes, bettered that of any of the male swimmers. Tirabocchi, the Italian, previously held the record of 16 hours, 23 minutes in covering an estimated distance, as he was carried hither and thither by the tides, of 27 miles. Charles Toth, was next with 16 hours 54 minutes in swimming 28 miles.

First Man To Cross.

Captain Mathew Webb of England, who in 1875 was the first man to cross the channel, swimming from Dover Sands, England, to Sangatte, France, was in the water 22 hours and 45 minutes and swam approximately 39 miles. Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., required 27 hours 23 minutes in crossing from Dover to Cape Griz Nez. He had to swim 45 miles.

Thomas W. Burgess of London, who was Miss Ederle's mentor in her victory over the channel, is the other man who was successful in negotiating the rough and cold waters of the channel. He swam for 22 hours and 35 minutes and it is estimated covered a distance of 35 miles.

DOVER, England, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—Gertrude Ederle alone deserves the credit for her record breaking trans-channel swim, for William Burgess the veteran swimmer and trainer, admitted today that twice during the gruelling battle against the channel he advised Miss Ederle to give up her attempt.

Burgess said that at noon he felt that the American girl was failing and he advised her to leave the water, but she shook her head and swam on. Again at six o'clock in the evening, Burgess said he urged "Trudy" to leave the water, but again she shook her head.

"I've got to get that roadster," she said, referring to a roadster which her father had promised her if she made the swim.

Miss Ederle today received cabled offers of contracts from several American vaudeville circuits.

Suzanne Happy.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—Suzanne Lenglen went into a rhapsody of enthusiasm today when asked to comment upon the feat of Gertrude Ederle in swimming the channel in record breaking time.

"She must be a superwoman—that's all," said Suzanne. "It is most gratifying to me that a woman could equal and better a man's record. Her exploit definitely enthrones woman in the world of sport. Contests requiring deftness, skill, and adoitness, such as archery, golf and tennis, have long been recognized as woman's province but Gertrude's has definitely proved that woman is man's equal in contests requiring endurance, strength and grit.

"I consider Miss Ederle's feat the greatest any individual athlete has accomplished for a decade.

"I have never met Miss Ederle but I hope to have that pleasure in America.

Ready for Another Swim.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Gertrude Ederle bounced out of bed at 11:30 o'clock this morning, declaring she was ready for another swim.

She showed no trace of the terrible strain of yesterday's ordeal, when she battled the treacherous currents of the English channel for 14 hours and 31 minutes, crossing from France to England in record time and becoming the first of her sex to perform the feat. The New York girl was full of pep and great good humor when she arose and proceeded immediately to get ready to catch the afternoon boat from Folkestone to Boulogne, where her training quarters were established.

Rhoden Is Held To Grand Jury In Auto Theft

Harold Rhoden, 17, was taken before U. S. Commissioner Whitmore Saturday on a charge of auto theft, and was bound over to the Federal grand jury under a $1,000 bond. He is one of the trio which is alleged to have stolen a Ford coupe in Dallas, Texas, and to have driven it to Lincoln where they abandoned it. They then took a car owned by J. G. Grubb and drove it to Plattsmouth, it is alleged.

The other members of the trio, John H. Cawthon and Lillie May Crabtree, were arrested at Plattsmouth and were taken to face charges that have been filed against them there. Rhoden was arrested in Lincoln Saturday morning.

STEWART NEW IOWA SENTOR

Sioux City Man Named By Governor Hammill to Serve Until November Election, In Place Late A. B. Cummins.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—David W. Stewart, Sioux City attorney, today was appointed by Governor Hammill, as U. S. senator to serve from now until November general election in the place of the late Senator A. B. Cummins. Stewart was named by the state republican convention here yesterday as the party's nominee in the November election for the term of Senator Cummins which expires March 1927. The appointment was necessary because congress reconvenes before Stewart could be certified following the November 2 election.

FRENCHSENATE GIVE APPROVAL POINCARE PLAN

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)— The senate today adopted Premier Poincare's sinking fund project and his proposal for the industrialization of the tobacco monopoly by a vote of 201 to six.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.— With the general belief prevailing in official circles that arrangements already have been made informally for the establishment of extensive French credits in the United States, government experts were speculating today on the financial requirements of that nation.

Ratification of the American debt pact automatically will open gold reserves of the United States to France.

It was the opinion that France will seek a direct loan of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 and an additional credit of probably $100,000,000 to be drawn upon if needed.

"This is purely a guess based upon our knowledge of the French Situation," an expert said. "Exact information can come only from the Poincare government."

Immediate submission of the British and American pacts for ratification before the French parliament was interpreted here as the result of information furnished Premier Poincare by British and American financiers who have been in France recently.

Poincare Convinced.

Poincare has been convinced that outside financial assistance, prerequisite to stabilization of French currency and finance, will not be forthcoming until the debt agreements are ratified, officials thought.

Analyzing the situation an export explained that the direct loan will be required to meet maturing French obligations in the next six months or year.

The large credit would be used to protect the French franc at whatever figure the government decides to stabilize.

The French government must back up the franc if "short selling" occurs, until a definite gold standard is established, or sufficient confidence restored that the franc will have a normal value.

In some respects the battle to reestablish the franc will be more difficult than bringing the pound sterling back to par. The pound gradually improved its position and was slowly brought to a point where final stabilization was comparatively easy. The surgical operation to re-create the franc will be more severe.

DEATH FROM SHOCK.

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Thomas H. Evans of Litchfield died at the St. Francis hospital Thursday evening of shock, following a severe operation to which she submitted earlier in the day. She was aged 55 years. The body was taken to Mason City for burial.

THE WEATHER.

Fair weather and moderate temperatures prevail throughout the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and the Great Plains. Temperatures are rising and pressure falling in the northern Mountain region. Showers have fallen in western Canada and in Colorado and New Mexico. There has also been scattered rain in eastern and southeastern states, and temperatures are above normal in those states. It is clear with moderate temperatures on the Pacific coast.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.

The motor stocks and specialties were ready to resume their forward movement in the market today. The motor stocks received the most attention, though New York Central, Atchison and other high grade rails were well bought at peak prices.

Another aggressive rally was staged in General Motors, in the course of which the stock moved up 5 points to above 212 in the first hour. United States Steel gained more than a point on heavy buying at slightly higher price levels.

A strong demand developed for the stocks of the amusement and theatrical companies as a result of the enthusiastic comments on the successful showing of the Vitaphone on Broadway. Warner Brothers Pictures, Class A, jumped 8 points to 28⅛, while Famous Players, Pathe, Fox Class A, and Shubert sold up about a point on the average.

The balance of the market was quiet and featureless. New York Central and Atchison repeated yesterday's performance by reaching new high record prices for all time, the former above 138 and the latter above 142. Oil stocks were steady though inactive. Mercantile stocks and tobacco stocks carried their late rallies to slightly higher prices. Commodity and investment markets were inacive and price movemens narrow.

Indusrial stocks moved forward briskly in the final period under the lead of General Motors and United States Steel. Numerous specialty stocks rose buoyantly in this period, recording the best prices of the week. Continental Motors featured the low priced motor stocks and sold in large volume above 12. Oils were unsettled near the close.

Bond prices were firm in narrow trading in the listed bond market today. French government issues recovered all of Friday's late losses and sold more than a point higher for the 8's and fractionally higher for the 7's and 7½'s. Belgian government 7½'s gained a point at 108¼.

Prime industrial and railroad bonds showed little change. Liberty bonds were unusually quiet and prices were unchanged.

Motor stocks, industrial and specialties advanced in good form at the opening of the stock market today. Warner Brother Pictures A jumped 3⅛ to 23⅜ on reports of the success of the first showing of the Vitaphone; General Motors sold up 1⅜ at 209; Hudson Motors was up 1⅛ at 72½; Safety Razor up ¾ at 69¼; Marland Oil up ⅜ at 60; Famous Players up ½ at 119⅝. The rails were inactive and steady, with new York Central and Southern Pacific unchanged.

Stock prices displayed a firm tone at the opening of today's arket. Large buying orders were distributed among the motors an dspecialties, initial gains of a point or more being recarded by General Motors, Hudson Motors, Remington Typewriter, International Telephone and Case Threshing Machine. New 1926 peak prices were established in the first few minutes of trading by American Safety Razor, Union Carbide and Butterick Publishing.

Stock sales on the floor of the New York stock exchange today totaled 978,-700; bonds, $3,737,000.

Stock sales for the week totaled 12,-132,200; bonds, $46,709,000.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dun's today says:

"The present comparative activity of business during what is normally the quietest period of the year continues to attract attention. Mid-August is not the time to expect commercial expansion, yet evidences of it appear now in some channels and the position of different sellers has been visibly strengthened. After eight consecutive months of decline Dun's price index number is at the lowest point since the spring of 1924; but the latest recession is very slight and occurred entirely in foodstuffs.

The downward course of markets, some important commodities has been checked recently and various buyers, these adhering closely to a conservative policy have shown less hesitation in their operation. With general trade disclosing more vigor than had been anticipated earlier in the year, commitments are being made now with increased confidence and optimism regarding fall prospects is the ruling sentiment. Weekly bank clearings, $9,359,158,000.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The opinion in some quarters is that wheat will not do much either way for the present, most probably until after the government report Tuesday.

Yesterday's reports were of better conditions in the Canadian province. There were rains and cooler weather.

The annual controversy over Russian crop conditions has been revived. Reports are meager, but some traders insist the crop cannot be as large as represented by some advices.

There has been considerable posting of corn here as out of condition. More than 100,000 bushels were so listed by one elevator yesterday.

Favorable corn reports come in from Illinois and Iowa. From Kansas, however, the market hears that corn has been hurt by drouth and heat.

Observers say the past few days torridness probably did little, if any, damage to the central states corn. It was known to be far behind, and needing rapid approach to maturity to get ahead of the frost. Oats and rye continue to act in sympathy wit hthe leader neither showing much activity. There is some talk of a bullish outlook for the oats crop.

The Modern Miller says:

"Scattered showers and more moderate temperatures have proved of aid to the Canadian wheat crop during the week. The crop is spotted. Cutting and threshing of spring wheat is progressing with yields in the early sections below average. Most of the winter wheat threshing is completed and large yields continue as operations extend north."

Caandian Pacific railroad bulleton says:

"Manitoba promising yield better than average, cutting general about 10th. Saskatchewan spotted, extremely difficult to estimate, cutting general about 15th. Alberta, with favorable conditions from now to harvest will have more than last year, cutting general about 16th."

Van Deusen-Harrington crop report says:

"A large part of the northwest is in need of moisture. Harvesting of spring wheat is quite general, although some of the late wheat will not be out for ten days or two weeks.

Farmers in central Illinois still have one-half of the saleable crop of 1915 in the opinion of a Bloomington, Ill., banker who keeps a close check on farming operations. If this is correct a heavy run of corn from that section is expected as small grains are threshed. Incidentally prices for corn are now much better than when a large part of the early sales were made.

Mills are eagerly seeking dry carloads of hard winter wheat here now that a larger amount of the current arrivals are showing a higher moisture conduct. The mills are paying a premium for the dry wheat.

Primary receipts of wheat Friday were 2,954,000 bushels, week ago 3,900,-000, year ago, 1,688,000.

Liverpool wheat is due 3-4 to 1c lower today, based on action of the Chicago market yesterday.

Grain futures purchases August 5th were: wheat, 35,627,000 bushels; corn, 11,375,000; oats, 4,579,000; rye, 1,211,-000; total 52,792,000 bushels.

INTERURBAN PLANS TO USE MOTOR BUSSES

in a loop from Fourteenth and R streets west to Twelfth street, then south to P street past the chamber of commerce building, and then east to Fourteenth and P street. From that point the route would follow Fourteenth street north to Vine, then east on Vine to Twenty-first street, north on Twenty-first street to Y street; east on Y to Twenty-seventh street, north on Twenty-seventh to Orchard street, east on Orchard street to Idylwild drive, north on Idylwild Drive to Holdrege, and east on Holdrege to Fortieth street.

The route through University Place will be as follows: Commencing at the north limits of University Place at the Warren avenue intersection, south along Warren avenue to Holdrege or Seventh street, and west along Holdrege to Fortieth street or the western limits of University Place.

The bus service would commence in University Place at 6:30 every morning and would continue every thirty minutes until 11 p. m.

A ten-cent fare is proposed for bus passengers, compared with seven cents now being charged on the company's electric interurban cars. The company does not request any increase in fare for the street car line.

In its application to the city, the company asks that in the event any of the stretes are closed along this proposed route the company will be permitted to operate over such other street as may be necesary to complete its service during the time the street is blocked.

Mayor is Favorable.

The attitud eof the city council toward the proposal of the Omaha, Lincoln and Beatrice Railway company's proposal will ndoubtedly be favorable. Mayor Zehrung expresed himself as being in favor of the plan, after it had been presented him by Mr. Bramlette this morning.

Mayor Zehrung has filed an amendment to the city ordinance which provides that every motor bus operating as a part of the street railway system shall pay an occupation tax on gross revenue as is done by the street railway system, and shall be exempt from license and bond as provided in the ordinance. This will be presented to the council for action next Monday in connection with the Traction company's application for permission to substitute bus service on the South Fourteenth street line. This proposed amendment, however, was drawn up with only the Traction company's application in mind. Both matters will probably be taken up for discussion at next week's meeting of the council.

This new supplemental bus service has been planned in such a way that it will provide unusually good transportation service for university students who must make trips from the city campus to the agricultural college. They will be able to take a bus at Twelfth and R street and be delivered in front of the agricultural college campus.

At the same time the electric car service will be available for use by the students.

The residents in Northeast Lincoln will also benefit by having another line of transportation within easy reach. Although the bus route will follow the general course of the car line, there are numerous places where the distance from the residences to lines will be considerably lessened, Mr. Bramlette said.

Charleston Champ Dances Away From "No Fund" Charge

Napoleon Littlefield, colored, onetime Charleston champion of this vicinity, is out again, after being in again Friday night.

Littlefield, arrested on a no-fund check charge, did a fade-away Saturday morning when he and R. L. Null, on whom a bad check is alleged to have been passed by Napoleon, went to the negro's former employer to collect some money to pay Mr. Null.

The colored man was arrested Friday after he is said to have attempted to pass a bad check at Salem's, Nineteenth and O streets, in payment for two ice cream cones. He and Mr. Null agreed Saturday morning to fix up their differences, and Napoleon was to get the money at the hotel where he was once employed.

Napoleon entered the hotel, but did not come out. Police are searching for him.

LELAND WOOD KILLED IN FALL FROM PRECIPICE

honors from the University School of Music where he graduated in 1925 ,and Phi Beta Kappa honors from the state university the same year. For the past year he has been an instructor in violin at the school of music and also played first violin at the Lyric theater.

For several years he has played obligatos for vocalists at special programs all over the city. His teacher, Prof. Carl Frederic Steckleberg, described him as a "young man with a brilliant record and a promising future." All his musical instruction had been received in Lincoln.

He started playing the violin before he entered high school. Progressing quickly, he soon advanced to concert master of the high school orchestra here. In the university, he played first violin in the orchestra and had also been concert master of the University school of music orchestra the past year.

He left for a vacation about two weeks ago with his mother Mrs. Minnie L. Wood, 2910 Vine street, and his sister, Velma. His early life was spent on a farm out in the state. After the death of his father, with his mother and sister, he moved to Lincoln where he has lived ever since.

Besides being a fine violinist, he was also a capable pianist, said Adrian Newens, president of the University School of Music. Mr. Wood also belonged to the local chapter of the Sinfonia musical society and for the past year was treasurer of that organization. Not long ago he went to Chicago and played before Prof. Auer, the famous violinist who also declared he showed great ability and advised further study. After the coming term at the school of music, he planned to take a course of study under Prof. Auer in Chicago .

The body of Leland Wood arrived in Lincoln at 1:35 Saturday afternoon and was taken to Hodgman's pending funeral arrangements.

Rev. Earl E. Harper's discussion was on the liturgy of the Methodist church. He believes that the worship of the church should be much more solemn with a much greater participation by the people. He also declared that it was a necessary thing today fo rchoirs to be vested and for the minister to wear a robe.

The ideal service of worship as recommended by Rev. Harper will be carried out in the Sunday morning service at Epworth park. With a twenty-five minute sermon, this complete worship will take about one hour and twenty minutes. The idea of making announcements in the service of worship was condemned by Rev. Harper. He feels that the offering should merely be a substitute for a holy communion service.

Prof. A. T. Robertson gave his fourth exposition on the First Epistle of Peter taking the subject "Reciprocity" for his subject and his text from the third chapter, verses one to twelve.

Besides the Foreign Missionary program Saturday afternoon the Elwyn players presented the play, "Her Temporary Husband," a Broadway comedy. The play contains a bright, sparkling plot with humorous situations and clevelywritten lines. This evening they will give the play, "Thank You."

Former Lincoln Woman Is Dead

Word has been received in Lincoln of the death of Mrs. A. M. Chase at Riverside, Cal., July 31. Mrs. Chase, and her husband, were among the early residents of Lincoln, coming here in the early seventies from North Adams, Mass. They resided in Lincoln for years. Mr. Chase was in the real estate business.

Mrs. Chase passed away at the home of her daughter. Mrs. Albert Huff, in Riverside, according to word reaching friends here. She leaves a son, Roscoe of Chicago, Eva ,of Riverside, Cal., and Mrs. Huff of the same city. She had three grand children.

Grain Co.'s Articles Filed.— The secretary of state's office Saturday received and filed articles of incorporation for the newly organized Crittenden Grain Co. of Lincoln, whose complete organization was announced Friday.

Wanted for House Burglary.— Requisition papers have been issued for two men under arrest at Kansas City, on the charge of breaking into a house at Omaha on August 2 and stealing silverware, clothing, 2 watches, and jewelry. The home entered was that of T. W. Wilson. The men had some jewelry in their possession when Kansas City police took them into custody.

MISS EDERLE WINS FAME AS A SWIMMER

"I am a proud woman," she declared simply.

Notwithstanding the long time she had been in the water, Miss Ederle required no asistance when she landed. She even desired to take to the water again and swim out to the tug which had convoyed her across from France. She was advised not to do this, however, and entering a motorboat she was taken out to the tug and started back for France.

A Determined Girl.

When she took to the water early Friday morning grim determination was written on the face of the American girl to acomplish the task she had set for herself. With her body thickly covered with grease so that she might be able to withstand the chill of the water, Miss Ederle started off with her easy, long swimming crawl which won for her world records. Her arms rose and fell rythmically at 28 to 30 strokes to the minute as she cut through the water In the first five hours she was nine miles out in the channel. The wind was kicking up somewhat choppy seas. They seemingly did not deter her, for she kept steadily on, notwithstanding an adverse tide.

Meets Heavy Seas.

As the swimmer approached the shores of England she met with the worst conditions on the trip. The breeze churned up heavy seas and there was some rain. But still she kept on. As she passed the Goodwin sands lightship she was swimming strongly toward her goal, only six miles away. At 9 p. m. she was two miles out from shore, plugging along with a determination to finish her task. The bonfires and searchlights showed her the way, and forty minutes later she walked up the beach amid the cheers of the people from the surrounding resorts with the honor of being the first woman to swim the English chaneel.

Was Sixth Person.

Gertrude Ederle is the sixth person to swim the channel. The five others were men. Her time of 14 hours 31 minutes, bettered that of any of the male swimmers. Tirabocchi, the Italian, previously held the record of 16 hours, 23 minutes in covering an estimated distance, as he was carried hither and thither by the tides, of 27 miles. Charles Toth, was next with 16 hours 54 minutes in swimming 28 miles.

First Man To Cross.

Captain Mathew Webb of England, who in 1875 was the first man to cross the channel, swimming from Dover Sands, England, to Sangatte, France, was in the water 22 hours and 45 minutes and swam approximately 39 miles. Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., required 27 hours 23 minutes in crossing from Dover to Cape Griz Nez. He had to swim 45 miles.

Thomas W. Burgess of London, who was Miss Ederle's mentor in her victory over the channel, is the other man who was successful in negotiating the rough and cold waters of the channel. He swam for 22 hours and 35 minutes and it is estimated covered a distance of 35 miles.

DOVER, England, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—Gertrude Ederle alone deserves the credit for her record breaking trans-channel swim, for William Burgess the veteran swimmer and trainer, admitted today that twice during the gruelling battle against the channel he advised Miss Ederle to give up her attempt.

Burgess said that at noon he felt that the American girl was failing and he advised her to leave the water, but she shook her head and swam on. Again at six o'clock in the evening, Burgess said he urged "Trudy" to leave the water, but again she shook her head.

"I've got to get that roadster," she said, referring to a roadster which her father had promised her if she made the swim.

Miss Ederle today received cabled offers of contracts from several American vaudeville circuits.

Suzanne Happy.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—Suzanne Lenglen went into a rhapsody of enthusiasm today when asked to comment upon the feat of Gertrude Ederle in swimming the channel in record breaking time.

"She must be a superwoman—that's all," said Suzanne. "It is most gratifying to me that a woman could equal and better a man's record. Her exploit definitely enthrones woman in the world of sport. Contests requiring deftness, skill, and adoitness, such as archery, golf and tennis, have long been recognized as woman's province but Gertrude's has definitely proved that woman is man's equal in contests requiring endurance, strength and grit.

"I consider Miss Ederle's feat the greatest any individual athlete has accomplished for a decade.

"I have never met Miss Ederle but I hope to have that pleasure in America.

Ready for Another Swim.

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Gertrude Ederle bounced out of bed at 11:30 o'clock this morning, declaring she was ready for another swim.

She showed no trace of the terrible strain of yesterday's ordeal, when she battled the treacherous currents of the English channel for 14 hours and 31 minutes, crossing from France to England in record time and becoming the first of her sex to perform the feat. The New York girl was full of pep and great good humor when she arose and proceeded immediately to get ready to catch the afternoon boat from Folkestone to Boulogne, where her training quarters were established.

Rhoden Is Held To Grand Jury In Auto Theft

Harold Rhoden, 17, was taken before U. S. Commissioner Whitmore Saturday on a charge of auto theft, and was bound over to the Federal grand jury under a $1,000 bond. He is one of the trio which is alleged to have stolen a Ford coupe in Dallas, Texas, and to have driven it to Lincoln where they abandoned it. They then took a car owned by J. G. Grubb and drove it to Plattsmouth, it is alleged.

The other members of the trio, John H. Cawthon and Lillie May Crabtree, were arrested at Plattsmouth and were taken to face charges that have been filed against them there. Rhoden was arrested in Lincoln Saturday morning.

STEWART NEW IOWA SENTOR

Sioux City Man Named By Governor Hammill to Serve Until November Election, In Place Late A. B. Cummins.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—David W. Stewart, Sioux City attorney, today was appointed by Governor Hammill, as U. S. senator to serve from now until November general election in the place of the late Senator A. B. Cummins. Stewart was named by the state republican convention here yesterday as the party's nominee in the November election for the term of Senator Cummins which expires March 1927. The appointment was necessary because congress reconvenes before Stewart could be certified following the November 2 election.

FRENCHSENATE GIVE APPROVAL POINCARE PLAN

PARIS, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)— The senate today adopted Premier Poincare's sinking fund project and his proposal for the industrialization of the tobacco monopoly by a vote of 201 to six.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.— With the general belief prevailing in official circles that arrangements already have been made informally for the establishment of extensive French credits in the United States, government experts were speculating today on the financial requirements of that nation.

Ratification of the American debt pact automatically will open gold reserves of the United States to France.

It was the opinion that France will seek a direct loan of from $50,-000,000 to $75,000,000 and an additional credit of probably $100,000,000 to be drawn upon if needed.

"This is purely a guess based upon our knowledge of the French Situation," an expert said. "Exact information can come only from the Poincare government."

Immediate submission of the British and American pacts for ratification before the French parliament was interpreted nere as the result of information furnished Premier Poincare by British and American financiers who have been in France recently.

Poincare Convinced.

Poincare has been convinced that outside financial assistance, prerequisite to stabilization of French currency and finance, will not be forthcoming until the debt agreements are ratified, officials thought.

Analyzing the situation an expert explained that the direct loan will be required to meet maturing French obligations in the next six months or year.

The large credit would be used to protect the French franc at whatever figure the government decides to stabilize.

The French government must back up the franc if "short selling" occurs, until a definite gold standard is established, or sufficient confidence restored that the franc will have a normal value.

In some respects the battle to reestablish the franc will be more difficult than bringing the pound sterling back to par. The pound gradually improved its position and was slowly brought to a point where final stabilization was comparatively easy. The surgical operation to re-create the franc will be more severe.

DEATH FROM SHOCK.

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Thomas H. Evans of Litchfield died at the St. Francis hospital Thursday evening of shock, following a severe operation to which she submitted earlier in the day. She was aged 55 years. The body was taken to Mason City for burial.

THE WEATHER.

Fair weather and moderate temperatures prevail throughout the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and the Great Plains. Temperatures are rising and pressure falling in the northern Mountain region Showers have fallen in western Canada and in Colorado and New Mexico. There has also been scattered rain in eastern and southeastern states, and temperatures are above normal in those states. It is clear with moderate temperatures on the Pacific coast.

Youth In Line For Muny Links Title

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 7—(INS)—Under ideal weather conditions, Karl Kauffman of Pittsburgh and Lester Bolstad of Minneapolis teed off promptly at 10 o'clock this morning in the first of the double round to decide the national public links golf championship.

Buffalo turned out quite a gallery to see the well seasoned player from Pennsylvania play the 1[illegible]-year-old youngster from the middle west. The Grover Cleveland park course was soft and spongy from a torrential downpour of rain the night before. The day was bright and unusually cool, with a stiff breeze blowing from over Lake Erie.

Kauffman, the western Pennsylvania amateur champion and semi-finalist in the public links tournament last year, is the favorite to win. His experience is expected to be the deciding factor against the Minneapolis municipal champion.

Bolstad was five up on Kauffman at the turn, going out this morning. Bolstad shot the first nine holes in 35, while Kauffman, way off form, required a 40.

Racing Halted By Court Injunction

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 7—(INS)—Use of the Pari-Mutuel system for the promotion of race betting at the Coney Island race track will be stopped at 7 o'clock tonight by a temporary injunction granted early today. It is presumed the Coney meet will be closed as was that at Thistledown, Cleveland, since operators of the track here have indicated that it would be useless to run the races without the betting.

The decision was sent by telegram early today to Clerk of Courts Frank Lewis from Judge Louis V. Houck of Mt. Vernon, who presided in the special court of appeals, which heard the case against the track operators. Judge Houck had communicated by telephone with other members of the special court to get the decision.

Distilled Advertising

Look at almost any large advertisement—big type, attention-getting head, and illustration.

And think in how few words the actual description of one thing offered could be compressed—if it were not necessary to catch your attention.

Look at a classified ad—from twenty-five to thirty words, four or five lines, in uniform small type, with just the one word that tells what the ad is about, in slightly larger letters.

There's distilled advertising for you—with no words spent on winning your consideration, because you voluntarily give that when you turn to the Classified Section.

If you like facts—true, necessary, conveniently arranged facts—you'll like the service that good classified ads can give you.

Youth In Line For Muny Links Title

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Under ideal weather conditions, Karl Kauffman of Pittsburgh and Lester Bolstad of Minneapolis teed off promptly at 10 o'clock this morning in the first of the double round to decide the national public links golf championship.

Buffalo turned out quite a gallery to see the well seasoned player from Pennsylvania play the 18-year-old youngster from the middle west. The Grover Cleveland park course was soft and spongy from a torrential downpour of rain the night before. The day was bright and unusually cool, with a stiff breeze blowing from over Lake Erie.

Kauffman, the western Pennsylvania amateur champion and semi-finalist in the public links tournament last year, is the favorite to win. His experience is expected to be the deciding factor against the Minneapolis municipal champion.

Bolstad was five up on Kauffman at the turn, going out this morning. Bolstad shot the first nine holes in 38, while Kauffman, way off form, required a 43.

Racing Halted By Court Injunction

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 7.—(INS)—Use of the Pari-Mutuel system for the promotion of race betting at the Coney Island race track will be stopped at 7 o'clock tonight by a temporary injunction granted early today. It is presumed the Coney meet will be closed, as was that at Thistledown, Cleveland, since operators of the track here have indicated that it would be useless to run the races without the betting.

The decision was sent by telegram early today to Clerk of Courts Frank Lewis from Judge Louis V. Houck of Mt. Vernon, who presided in the special court of appeals, which heard the case against the track operators. Judge Houck had communicated by telephone with other members of the special court to get the decision.

Distilled Advertising

Look at almost any large advertisement—big type, attention-getting head, and illustration.

And think in how few words the actual description of one thing offered could be compressed—if it were not necessary to catch your attention.

Look at a classified ad—from twenty-five to thirty words, four or five lines, in uniform small type, with just the one word that tells what the ad is about, in slightly larger letters.

There's distilled advertising for you—with no words spent on winning your consideration, because you voluntarily give that when you turn to the Classified Section.

If you like facts—true, necessary, conveniently arranged facts—you'll like the service that good classified ads can give you.

Walsh Rates "Wildcat" as Uncrowned Champion

Fight Judges Pull Trick Decision on Ace Hudkins

Lincoln Boy Makes the Chilean Target for Terrific Pummeling, But Best Ace Gets Is Verdict of Draw; Loayza Reeling and Groggy During Late Rounds From Nebraska Battler's Body Attack.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—In a moment of inspiration, some one called him "Ace" Hudkins, and if were they to thumb through the entire deck of 52 cards they might have been more thorough and less appropriate. What I wish to infer is that I think the kid is clever.

Twice, now, he has had his chance to finish second, according to the wishes of the so-called wise Broadway money, and twice has he fooled both the money and then men who bet it.

A comparative few weeks ago, they sent him in with Ruby Goldstein, a New York favorite. He knocked Goldstein out.

Last night, they turned the fellow loose again and this time he got a draw with Stanislaus Loayza, supposedly the greatest lightweight who never held the title.

Ace got a draw, but if he didn't win that fight then the writer doesn't know his onions and doesn't want to know them. Hudkins came home on the bit, a winner by ten lengths. But the boys will pull one out of the hay every now and then and last night they were about due.

Smart Boys Were Fooled.

I am duly aware of the fact that Hudkins was a 6 to 5 favorite, but that was beyond the point. The "smart" money went in on Loayza at the prevailing odds and the boys really thought they were set for a killing. They knew this Hudkins bird had lined up the saps behind him with his knockout over Goldstein, so they sat back and took every dollar that evinced a desire to travel. They had the sign set for full speed ahead but, unfortunately the business went into reverse, and for the second time Hudkins went home with the knowledge that he owed Broadway a collection.

They still were passing the hat this morning.

But, as far as I am concerned, they won't have to do it for Hudkins. He is the uncrowned lightweight champion.

Loayza is a good boy, but Hudkins is as tough as the opposite side of a hard-boiled egg.

Sid Terris has been trying to take the play away from all comers, but, for Sidney's sake, I would hate to see him go so far wrong as to place his portico in jutaposition with Hudkins' good right hand. The incident simply would lead to unpleasant circumstances.

Second Battling Nelson.

In other words, it begins to look as though Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast did not live in vain. Certainly, any lightweight who could take a punching such as Loayza handed out last night and then come back for more to take the closing round with a rush, must have more than a mere handful of fingers.

Decision Booed by Crowd.

NE WYORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins of Nebraska and Stanislaus Loayza of Chile are deadlocked in their efforts to gain honors in the lightweight division.

Their 12-round contest at the Coney Island stadium here last night was declared a draw after a toe-to-toe combat that saw the Chilean lead through the first half of the contest, only to have Hudkins finish furiously. Many of the experts conceded the westerner seven of the rounds. Hudkins' final drive was effective and several times he had the South American in trouble, but Loayza, the "jaguar," fought bitterly to the end. The decision was booed by a large crowd.

THE BATTLE BY ROUNDS.

(Associated Press)

Round one—Both started cautiously, sparring for openings. Loayza connected lightly with a left hook, but took a smashing right-hander to the ribs. They battered away at close quarters. The Chilean sunk a left into Ace's stomach, but missed a right uppercut. Ace hooked a sharp right to Loayza's jaw. The Chilean landed both hands to the head and then clinched. They were standing head to head and fighting at a fast clip when the bell rang.

Round two—They landed blows to the head and had to be prie dapart from a clinch. The Chilean ducked a vicious right-hander, but Ace sunk a left to the body and the Chilean flailed away with both hands, after forcing Hudkins to the ropes. Both fought in a boxing position, without yielding ground, as they sought to gain an advantage at close range. Hudkins landed a long left to the body and ducked a counter hook to the head. Hudkins took two smacking lefts to the jaw without attempting a return. Just before the bell, Hudkins landed a swishing right to his opponent's cheek. There was little to choose so far.

Chilean Wins Round Three.

Round three—They battered away from the opening gong. The crowd was in an uproar as the fighters threw caution to the winds and engaged in a slugging fest. The Chilean forced the pace and drove Hudkins back with a succession of smashing wallops to the head. Hudkins countered with several terrific lefts to the body. Loayza kept pumping his left to the head, but the blows did not seem to bother the Nebraskan. It was a sensational pace and both seemed a bit tired. Loayza came back with another smashing drive, plastering his opponent with right and left hooks. Hudkins seemed a bit groggy as he went to his corner after this battering. It was the Chilean's round by a decisive margin.

Round four—Hudkins opened cautiously and they were pried apart from several clinches. Loayza directed his attack to the jaw again and snapped Hudkins' head back with a stinging right hook. Blood flowed from Hudkins' mouth after another exchange. The Chilean was wary of his rival's body blows, after feeling the effects of several heavy wallops to the ribs. They stood toe to toe an slugged like a couple of longshoremen. Hudkins rushed Loayza to the ropes, but was backed off by a left hook to the chin. The Chilean appeared the stronger of the two and his blows were carrying more steam.

Ace Booed By Crowd.

Round five—Hudkins connected with two smashing hooks to the head, staggering the Chilean. They cut loose with both fists for a few moments and then clinched. Hudkins was boxing with more care and landing his rival off with his long left. The crowd booed when Hudkins hit the Chilean as the latter held out his hands after each clinch. It was the signal for another wild melee, with Hudkins having the better of the infighting. Loayza was wild with his left, but blocked a counter to the ribs. They exchanged sharp lefts to the head just before the bell rang. Hudkins had staged a spirited rally, but he was booed roundly by the crowd for what it believed was unfair tactics in hitting the Chilean as the latter was breaking away from the clinches.

Round six—Hudkins battered away with both hands to the body. The Chilean seemed to be showing under the Wildcat's attack. Loayza curled his left to the ear. They were clinching more freely. Hudkins was forcing the fighting, but finding few openings. Loayza connected with four hooks to the chin. He took a pounding on the ribs just before the bell sounded. Hudkins' aggressiveness gave him the round.

Wildcat on Rampage.

Round eight—Hudkins sent the Chilean to the ropes with a left to body. The Chilean came back with a rapid fire attack to the head. Hudkins blocked Loayza's left with his glove, taking a stiff right to the head. The Chilean's left found his opponent's chin, but Ace brought the blood from his opponent's nose with a jolting left. Loayza staggered to the ropes, after taking a smashing right to the jaw. The Chilean rushed back to the attack, but met a terrific attack to the body. Loayza seemed groggy as he wen to his corner. It was the most decisive turn of the fight so far in Hudkins' favor.

Chilean Nearly Done For.

Round nine—Hudkins swung a right to the head as he came from his corner, but only grazed his opponent's ear. Loayza got his left to the head and followed with a sharp right. Ace staggered the Chilean with a right to the chin. The Chilean was groggy, but kept fighting gamely. Blood flowed from Loayza's nose and mouth. Hudkins took a right to the head, but countered with a hook to the body. The Chilean backed away from Ace's vicious left hooks and seemed in distress when the bell sounded.

Round ten—Hudkins rushed from his corner before the opening gong sounded. He took a right to the jaw when they met in the center of th ering. The Chilean was wild in counter attempts after taking the Wildcat's body blows. Hudkins tried to land a right, but Loayza danced out of range. Loayza connected to the head with a left, but Hudkins bored in. Hudkins pasted Loayza with both hands in a corner, but the Chilean still was game. Loayza leaped in with a left just before the bell.

Wildcat Does His Stuff.

Round eleven—Hudkins was raring to go before every round. He leaped from his corner like a wildcat, but found Loayza willing to mix. The Chilean kept working his left to the head, but Ace blocked most of the blows. They traded punches to the head at close range and the Chilean clipped Ace sharply with a left hook. Ace landed a hard right to the ribs. It was a give-and-take battle every minute, and they were punching away with both hands in a corner at the bell. The Chilean was more aggressive, but his blows lacked the force of Hudkins' punches.

Round twelve — Hudkins staggered Loayza with a smashing attack to the head. The Chilean was wobbling and grabbed Ace around the waist. The Nebraskan battered his rival into a corner, but could not bring him down. Loayza reeled to the ropes under the impact of a smashing right to the body, but came back gamely to the attack. They were locked in repeated clinches as Loayza sought to save himself. Hudkins missed a wild right, but pounded the Chilean with a terrific drive to the body. Loayza danced out of range and they were clinched at the bell.

Last Night's Fights.

At New York—Ace Hudkins, Lincoln, Nebr., lightweight, drew with Stanis Loayza, Chile, 10 rounds; Billy White, Jersey City, knocked out Harry Felix, New York, in fourth round; Joe Sigmund, New York featherweight, knocked out Gordon Munce, New York, in fifth round.

COUNTY TOURNEY ON SUNDAY BOOK

Three First Round Games To Staged By Amateurs At Landis Field.

Six of the sixteen teams on the entry roster will square off Sunday noon at Landis Field by way of inaugurating first round games in the baseball tournament involving the championship of Lancaster county.

Previous tourneys have listed only city teams, but the books were thrown open to other towns in the county this year, with the result that Bennet, Waverly, Hickman, Emerald and Malcolm have declared themselves in the running, stacking up against nine Lincoln aggregations.

The talent entered for the tournament is the cream of the county and a series of diamond thrillers for the entertainment of fans and followers is on the card for the next few weeks.

The schedule for the Sunday inaugural follows:

12 noon—Lincoln Colored Giants vs. Modern Woodmen 2266.
2 p. m.—City Hall vs. Bennet.
4 p. m.—Waverly vs. Gaddis Construction Co.

Entrance of the colored tossers has added a prime attraction to the tournament program. Negro ball clubs invariably are hustlers and their "will to win" makes them dangerous opponents. Strength of the Woodmen 2266 team is more or less an unknown quantity in local circles, but the Woodchoppers have passed out the word that they intend to put the "dark boys" out of the running the very first game.

City Hall and Bennet.

The City Hall crew, which has clinched the championship of the "Y" Industrial league, will line up against Bennet, one of the leaders in the Otoe county league. The Hallers have been fortified by the recent acquisition of Coach Browne and "Dutch" Witte.

The Waverly-Gaddis clash will round out the opening day tripleheader. Delegations of Bennet and Waverly fans are expected to accompany their teams. The free list has been suspended for the tournament and none but tournament players will be admitted free.

First round tripleheaders are dated for Aug. 15 and Sept. 5, the schedule being as follows:

Aug. 15—Modern Woodmen 969 vs. Emerald; Varsity Cleaners vs. Malcolmn; C. B. & Q. Beanery vs. Shogo Lithias.

Sept. 5—Hickman vs. Fisk Red Tops; O'Shea-Rogers Motors vs. Lincoln Ramblers.

Sandlotters Tournament.

Seven teams have declared themselves entered in the sandlotters tourney, which is to get under way Monday night on local diamonds. All games are to be twilight affairs. The Roberts' Dairy club was the seventh entry and the books will be kept open for an eighth club, in case one cares to enter. The Roberts aggregation has been scheduled to play the East Lincoln Bearcats Monday evening on the muny pool diamond. Other first round games in the sandlotters' competition will be played Monday at Rock Island park and the East W street diamond.

PIRATES' STAR INJURY VICTIM

Buccos Defeat Boston, But Lose the Services Of Glenn Wright.

BOSTON, Aug 7—(AP)—Although Pittsburgh defeated Boston yesterday, 5 to 4, gaining a three out of four edge on the Braves in the series the champions lost the service, for a few days at least, of Shortstop Glen Wright. The Pirates star injured his right leg when he slid into second, after making a long double in the seventh inning. He was taken to a hospital for examination, but it was believed that he injury was not serious. The Braves reached Yde for nine hits, but clever fielding kept ten men stranded on the sacks. CLEANERS GRAB CITY LOOP TITLE

Sipe's Team Waltzes Away With 6-2 Win Over Shogo Lithias.

The Varsity Cleaners annexed the City league baseball title Friday evening at the Landis ball lot by trimming the Shogo Lithia pastimers, 6 to 2, in an abbreviated skirmish that was called in the seventh canto on account of darkness. Johnny Bretzer, Shogo ace, was off color, the Cleaners bumping him for five runs in the first two innings, although aided by a comedy of errors by the Lithia gardners.

Yetter inaugurated the proceeding by singling to center and moving up on Roper's sacrifice. F. Ullstrom saw bag one through Bretzer's generosity. Witte singled over second, scoring Yetter, and Ullstrom came all the way around when Miller let the ball trickle through his pins. "Dutch" ambled to second unharmed and loafed home when Lebsack sent a screeching drive to the middle sector.

Cleaners Continue Attack.

Successive singles by Yetter and Roper, a walk to Witte and Lebsack's single gave the Cleaners an additional pair more in the second. The Cleaners threatened again in the third and Bretzer left the picture. Burnbrook finished, allowing but one bingle during the remaining three innings.

Meantime, "Spike" Gilliland was throwing 'em past the pop manufacturers, whiffing six and allowing but eight scattered bingles throughout the mixup. The big fellow gave indications of blowing up in the fifth, however, when Price's two-base poke and singles by Burnbrook, Sitzman and Gross netted the Shogos a pair of tallies, but in the following stanza he regained his former poise and stood fast.

Stroh's Stunning Catch.

Stroh's remarkable diving catch of Frank Ullstrom's smack to left and the all-around play of Yetter, Cleaner keystone sacker, featured. Yetter, Roper and Lebsack led the attack for the winners, while Price and Baker were the potent factors in the Shogo run-making machine. The score:

'DOPE' HOLDS UP IN TENNIS FEST

Powell and Mahood Billed To Clash at Hastings In Singles Finals.

BY C. H. WICKER.

HASTINGS, Neb Aug. .—Ralph Powell, Omaha, will meet Paul Mahood, Lincoln, here Saturday afternoon for the tennis championship of Nebraska, while the present champion, paired with Don Elliott, will battle Powell and Jack Ringwalt for the doubles title.

Paul Mahood, who will defend his title, successfully disposed of Paul Schildneck Salem, here Friday afternoon in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3 and 7-5 while Ralph Powell trounced Don Elliott, Lincoln, in the semi-finals, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Halpine Junior Champion.

The junior singles championship was won by Paul Halpine, Omaha, when he came from behind and won, 6-3, 6-4, after losing the first set, 6-8, to Jim Elliott, West Point.

Harold Snyder, Hastings, won the consolation championship in the final event of the day by defeating Lee Abbett, Nebraska City, 8-6, 6-4.

L. Trombla, Lincoln, paired with Jim Elliott, West Point, went into the junior doubles final when they defeated Kenneth Feese and Wesley Abitz, Hastings, 6-4, 6-3, and will meet Paul Halpine and Roy Bowen, Omaha, for the title Saturday afternoon.

Friday Contests Drew Crowd.

An unusually large crowd was present at Highland Park courts Friday for the semi-final events and the games were inspiring from first to last.

The Mahood-Schildneck match was called first and, with both players in good form, they gave an exhibition that was featured by many spectacular shots.

Each player won his games on the first two serves and then Mahood won the next four games and set by placing his shots in the back court and crossing up Schildneck.

Mahood in Straight Sets.

The 1925 state champion won the first three games of the second set and then Schildneck's service got to working perfectly and he won the next two games. However, Mahood came back strong and finished the set, 6-3.

In the final and deciding set, the score stood, 2-2, 3-3, 5-3, 5-5, and then Schildneck's defense broke down and, with several shots being over-driven, the Lincoln representative won the set and right to meet Ralph Powell for the 1926 championship.

"Dope" Favors Powell.

While Powell defeated Don Elliott in straight sets, the latter played one of the best games of the tournament, Elliott was out generalled by Powell for the most part, yet gave the farmer champion a battle that was anything but a walkaway.

Ralph Powell is favored to regain the singles title, but on account of Paul Mahood's playing Friday the latter is expected to take more games from the former champion than has been done by all contestants in the tournament. Friday's results:

Senior Singles.

Semi-finals—
Paul Mahood, Lincoln, defeated Paul Schildneck, Salem, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5.
Ralph Powell, Omaha, defeated Don Elliott, Lincoln, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0.

Junior Singles.

Finals—
Paul Halpine, Omaha, defeated Jim Elliott, West Point, 6-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Junior doubles—

Semi-finals—
L. Trombla-J. Elliott defeated K. Feese-W. Abitz, Hastings, 6-4, 6-3.

Consolation Singles.

The tournament schedule for Saturday pits Western against Friend and Wilber against Dorchester. The three winning teams will compete in a Sunday doubleheader for the county title.

U. S. Fears Loss of Davis Cup As Tilden-Johnston Beaten

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 7.—(AP)—An amazing series of tennis reversals, climaxed by a straight set victory for Elizabeth Ryan over Helen Wills in the final of the women's singles, yesterday has threatened the reign of two national title-holders and America's defense of the international Davis cup.

An atmosphere of uncertainty has been thrown around the selection of the cup defense team by the unexpected downfall of William T. Tilden, R. Norris Williams and William M. Johnston in the singles.

The early elimination of Williams and Johnstone in the singles of the Seabright tournament, their initial appearance of this season in the east, has deprived both players of competition which they admit would have been beneficial preparation for the Davis cup tryouts next week.

Williams Erratic.

Williams, who went down to defeat before an unranked collegian, Lionel Ogden of Stanford University, has been brilliant, but erratic in his doubles play, paired with Vincent Richards, Johnston appears to have been benefitted by playing alongside Edward G. Chandler in the team event. With the two Davis cup veterans striving to round into championship form, Tilden has forsaken the stage temporarily to play here in both the men's and mixed doubles, but it has remained for Vincent Richards to encourage American tennis followers in their hope for successful defense of the trophy.

Richards at His Best.

By defeating Manuel Alonso of Spain yesterday, 6-2, 10-6, 6-2, the young internationalist demonstrated conclusively that he has attained the peak of his brilliant volleying game, which is considered by critics as making Richards a strong candidate for one of the singles positions on the defending team.

Richards' triumph, which gave him a second leg on the Seabright bowl, once more renewed discussion as to the possibility of his overthrowing Tilden in the national tournament.

Helen's Crown in Danger.

Observers here were inclined to accept the defeat of Miss Helen Wills at 614, 6-1, as strong indication that her crown is far from secure. Miss Ryan, who ranked No. 2 a year ago, proved to a large gallery that she is prepared to launch a formidable challenge nine days hence in the national title event for the crown, held by the youthful champion.

Miss Ryan surpassed Miss Wills in both base line and net play. Her spectacular recoveries left few openings for drives which did not apepar to carry the pace and direction of Helen at her best.

'Trudie' Proud Girl Over Channel Crossing Feat

BY GERTRUDE EDERLE.

DOVER, England, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—It seemed like ages and ages, and then, all of a sudden, I seemed to wake up found myself within a few feet of the beach. It seems like a dream now.

I knew I was right a year ago when I said I would swim the English channel.

The great point in my swimming it at all was to show that a girl could do it and that an American girl could do it, and that I was the American girl.

It all seems very far away now. I went to sleep night before last in my hotel in France and I woke up this morning in Dover, but what happened in between seems unreal.

Motor Car From Papa.

It was worth doing, just to see how pleased papa is. He promised me a motor-car if I did it and now I am going to have it.

I got tired soon after the start, but somehow it wore off in mid-channel. They tell me I did the first twelve miles at the rate of two miles an hour.

I felt my worst when I got within sight of England. It was a great encouragement at first, but it soon became discouraging because it didn't seem to get any nearer. That was bad for me, so I didn't look any more but I just kept on swimming.

Once, when I was going slowly, Burgess and papa came out and told me to stop swimming on account of the storm. I said, 'I am not coming out until I am fetched out and you just try to fetch me out.'

Tide Suddenly Changed.

It seemed most difficult when I got close to Dover. The tide suddenly changed and a srong current swept me toward Deal. I felt that the sea was pulling me away from England. I thought I had better not look any more, but had better go on swimming as long as I cold keep alive. Then it got dark and the sea seemed a lot more comfortable.

By that time the lard, vaseline and oil had pretty nearly al lcome off and I was beginning to feel cold.

Glow of Light on Beach.

It seemd ages and ages and then, all of a sudden, I seemed to wake up with a glow of light and find myself within a few feet of the beach, with people dancing before bonfires and cheering.

One thing seemed to pull me through. It was the phonograph on the tug playing, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

I went ashore and here I am. Look at papa, how pleased he is, and I am going to get that roadster and I have proved that a girl, an American girl, can swim the channel.

Takes Her Daily Dip.

DOVER, England, Aug. 7.—(INS)—After having spent more than fourteen hours victoriously battling the English channel yesterday, Gertrude Ederle's first act of relaxation today was to dive right back into the channel for a swim.

"Trudie" came down to the Dover beach at noon and took a running dive into the water she had conquered. A sort of a defiant dive it was, flaunting the channel waters.

"Nope, I'm not going to swim back to France," she said, as she laughed and struck out from the shore.

"I just came in for a swim. I can never face a day without a swim."

Not Feling Tired.

"I don't feel tired," and she splashed about in the shallow water after a good brisk swim. "My arms and legs ache some times though. When I awoke this morning, 'Pop' grabbed my hand and he made me wince. My legs are still tender."

Miss Ederle was the cynosure for all eyes on the beach and she attracted a great crowd, as she came from the water, but she wore an ordinary bathing suit and was not distinguishable from the other bathers.

"She is relaxing her muscles," "Pop" Ederle explained, as those near him marvelled at the girl's return to the water so soon after her gruelling battle.

Refreshed by Her Sleep.

"Trudie" awoke at nine o'clock this morning, after less than seven hours sleep, radiant and refreshed and showing no signs of the great strain of the day before.

Her first act upon rising was to rush upstairs and warmly kiss her father, Henry Ederle.

Miss Ederle got to bed at 2:15 o'clock this morning, after a gay supper party in the Grand hotel. There she had been toasted and hailed as the world's "supreme woman athlete of today and any time."

Her Muscles Massaged.

The loyal group which had superintended the girl's training insisted on giving her a thorough massage before they would permit her to retire. Her sleep was deep and apparently refreshing.

Asked this morning by Ishak Helmy, the Egyptian swimmer, how she was feeling, she said:

"I am a little tired, but nothing more than that."

Except for a slight twinge in the left knee the New York girl showed no ill effects of the long swim. The absence of muscular aches was attributed to the massaging she had received.

Civic Greeting at Boulogne.

The Ederle party will leave for France on the 4 o'clock boat today, landing at Boulogne, where the mayor has informed "pop" Ederle that he would like to extend to Gertrude an official welcome on Monday.

Telegrams of congratulation poured in all day, from France, England and the United States. Leading athletes of the world hailed Gertrude as a super-woman and expressed amazement at her history-making achievement, especially in view of the terrific odds against her.

World's proudest Father.

Henry Ederle, father of the swimmer, and prosperous New York butcher, after kissing her fondly when they met this morning, said to her:

"You have made me the happiest and proudest father in the world, but I am through with that channel. Never again."

Gertrude was dressed this morning in a plain dark blue frock, with brown shoes and stockings.

Miss Ederle plans to spend a week in Paris and then she will go to Germany with "pop" to visit "pop's" mother. She plans to leave for New York on the Berengaria August 21

Cleveland Loses Odd Clash Of Series to New York By 8 to 7 Margin.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—(AP)—New York won the odd game of the series from Cleveland yesterday, 8 to 7, Hoyt coming to the rescue with the tying run on second base and striking out McNulty a pinch-hitter. New York bunched its hits off Levsen in two innings, but errors of omission on the part of the infield were more responsible for his defeat than his effectiveness. He had won seven straight games. Ruth made his thirty-fifth home run of the season in the fifth inning with one on, while Burns of the Indians made three doubles, increasing his total to 52 for the season, driving in four of Cleveland's runs. Spectacular fielding by Spurgeon and Combs featured the game. By innings:

Two of these misplays came in the sixth, when the Senators scored five runs and knocked Wells out of the box. The Tigers filled the bases in the eighth with one out, when Marberry went to Morrell's relief and retired the side. By innings:

Walsh Rates "Wildcat" as Uncrowned Champion

Fight Judges Pull Trick Decision on Ace Hudkins

Lincoln Boy Makes the Chilean Target for Terrific Pummeling, But Best Ace Gets Is Verdict of Draw; Loayza Reeling and Groggy During Late Rounds From Nebraska Battler's Body Attack.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—In a moment of inspiration, some one called him "Ace" Hudkins, and if were they to thumb through the entire deck of 52 cards they might have been more thorough and less appropriate. What I wish to infer is that I think the kid is clever.

Twice, now, he has had his chance to finish second, according to the wishes of the so-called wise Broadway money, and twice has he fooled both the money and then men who bet it.

A comparative few weeks ago, they sent him in with Ruby Goldstein, a New York favorite. He knocked Goldstein out.

Last night, they turned the fellow loose again and this time he got a draw with Stanislaus Loayza, supposedly the greatest lightweight who never held the title.

Ace got a draw, but if he didn't win that fight then the writer doesn't know his onions and doesn't want to know them. Hudkins came home on the bit, a winner by ten lengths. But the boys will pull one out of the hay every now and then and last night they were about due.

Smart Boys Were Fooled.

I am duly aware of the fact that Hudkins was a 6 to 5 favorite, but that was beyond the point. The "smart" money went in on Loayza at the prevailing odds and the boys really thought they were set for a killing. They knew this Hudkins bird had lined up the saps behind him with his knockout over Goldstein, so they sat back and took every dollar that evinced a desire to travel. They had the sign set for full speed ahead but, unfortunately the business went into reverse, and for the second time Hudkins went home with the knowledge that he owed Broadway a collection.

They still were passing the hat this morning.

But, as far as I am concerned, they won't have to do it for Hudkins. He is the uncrowned lightweight champion.

Loayza is a good boy, but Hudkins is as tough as the opposite side of a hard-boiled egg.

Sid Terris has been trying to take the play away from all comers, but, for Sidney's sake, I would hate to see him go so far wrong as to place his portico in jutaposition with Hudkins' good right hand. The incident simply would lead to unpleasant circumstances.

Second Battling Nelson.

In other words, it begins to look as though Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast did not live in vain. Certainly, any lightweight who could take a punching such as Loayza handed out last night and then come back for more to take the closing round with a rush, must have more than a mere handful of fingers.

Decision Booed by Crowd.

NE WYORK, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins of Nebraska and Stanisluas Loayza of Chile are deadlocked in their efforts to gain honors in the lightweight division.

Their 12-round contest at the Coney Island stadium here last night was declared a draw after a toe-to-toe combat that saw the Chilean lead through the first half of the contest, only to have Hudkins finish furiously. Many of the experts conceded the westerner seven of the rounds. Hudkins' final drive was effective and several times he had the South American in trouble, but Loayza, the "jaguar," fought bitterly to the end. The decision was booed by a large crowd.

THE BATTLE BY ROUNDS.

(Associated Press)

Round one—Both started cautiously, sparring for openings. Loayza connected lightly with a left hook, but took a smashing right-hander to the ribs. They battered away at close quarters. The Chilean sunk a left into Ace's stomach, but missed a right uppercut. Ace hooked a sharp right to Loayza's jaw. The Chilean landed both hands to the head and then clinched. They were standing head to head and fighting at a fast clip when the bell rang.

Round two—They landed blows to the head and had to be prie dapart from a clinch. The Chilean ducked a vicious right-hander, but Ace sunk a left to the body and the Chilean flailed away with both hands, after forcing Hudkins to the ropes. Both fought in a boxing position, without yielding ground, as they sought to gain an advantage at close range. Hudkins landed a long left to the body and ducked a counter hook to the head. Hudkins took two smacking lefts to the jaw without attempting a return. Just before the bell, Hudkins landed a swishing right to his opponent's cheek. There was little to choose so far.

Chilean Wins Round Three.

Round three—They battered away from the opening gong. The crowd was in an uproar as the fighters threw caution to the winds and engaged in a slugging fest. The Chilean forced the pace and drove Hudkins back with a succession of smashing wallops to the head. Hudkins countered with several terrific lefts to the body. Loayza kept pumping his left to the head, but the blows did not seem to bother the Nebraskan. It was a sensational pace and both seemed a bit tired. Loayza came back with another smashing drive, plastering his opponent with right and left hooks. Hudkins seemed a bit groggy as he went to his corner after this battering. It was the Chilean's round by a decisive margin.

Round four—Hudkins opened cautiously and they were pried apart from several clinches. Loayza directed his attack to the jaw again and snapped Hudkins' head back with a stinging right hook. Blood flowed from Hudkins mouth after another exchange. The Chilean was wary of his rival's body blows, after feeling the effects of several heavy wallops to the ribs. They stood toe to toe an slugged like a couple of longshoremen. Hudkins rushed Loayza to the ropes, but was backed off by a left hook to the chin. The Chilean appeared the stronger of the two and his blows were carrying more steam.

Ace Booed By Crowd.

Round five—Hudkins connected with two smashing hooks to the head, staggering the Chilean. They cut loose with both fists for a few moments and then clinched. Hdukins was boxing with more care and landing his rival off with his long left. The crowd booed when Hudkins hit the Chilean as the latter held out his hands after each clinch. It was the signal for another wild melee, with Hudkins having the better of the infighting. Loayza was wild with his left, but blocked a counter to the ribs. They exchanged sharp lefts to the head just before the bell rang. Hudkins had staged a spirited rally, but he was booed roundly by the crowd for what it believed was unfair tactics in hitting the Chilean as the latter was breaking away from the clinches.

Round six—Hudkins battered away with both hands to the body. The Chilean seemed to be showing under the Wildcat's attack. Loayza curled his left to the ear. They were clinching more freely. Hudkins was forcing the fighting, but finding few openings. Loayza connected with four hooks to the chin. He took a pounding on the ribs just before the bell sounded. Hudkins' aggressiveness gave him the round.

Wildcat on Rampage.

Round eight—Hudkins sent the Chilean to the ropes with a left to body. TheChilean came back with a rapid fire attack to the head. Hudkins blocked Loayza's left with his glove, taking a stiff right to the head. The Chilean's left found his opponent's chin, but Ace brought the blood from his opponent's nose with a jolting left. Loayza staggered to the ropes, after taking a smashing right to the jaw. The Chilean rushed back to the attack, but met a terrific attack to the body. Loayza seemed groggy as he wen to his corner. It was the most decisive turn of the fight so far in Hudkins' favor.

Chilean Nearly Done For.

Round nine—Hudkins swung a right to the head as he came from his corner, but only grazed his opponent's ear. Loayza got his left to the head and followed with a sharp right. Ace staggered the Chilean with a right to the chin. The Chilean was groggy, but kept fighting gamely. Blood flowed from Loayza's nose and mouth. Hudkins took a right to the head, but countered with a hoog to the body. The Chilean backed away from Ace's vicious left hooks and seemed in distress when the bell sounded.

Round ten—Hudkins rushed from his corner before the opening gong sounded He took a right to the jaw when they met in the center of th ering. The Chilean was wild in counter attempts after taking the Wildcat's body blows. Hudkins tried to land a right, but Loayza danced out of range. Loayza connected to the head with a left, but Hudkins bored in. Hudkins pasted Loayza with both hands in a corner, but the Chilean still was game. Laayza leaped in with a left just before the bell.

Wildcat Does His Stuff.

Round eleven—Hudkins was raring to go before every round. He leaped from his corner like a wildcat, but found Loayza willing to mix. The Chilean kept working his left to the head, but Ace blocked most of the blows. They traded punches to the head at close range and the Chilean clipped Ace sharply with a left hook. Ace landed a hard right to the ribs. It was a give-and-take battle every minute, and they were punching away with both hands in a corner at the bell. The Chilean was more aggressive, but his blows lacked the force of Hudkins' punches.

Round twelve — Hudkins staggered Loayza with a smashing attack to the head. The Chilean was wobbling and grabbed Ace around the waist. The Nebraskan battered his rival into a corner, but could not bring him down. Loayza reeled to the ropes under the impact of a smashing right to the body, but came back gamely to the attack. They were locked in repeatd clinchs as Loayza sought to save himself. Hudkins missed a wild right, but pounded the Chilean with a terrific drive to the body. Loayza danced out of range and they were clinched at the bell.

COUNTY TOURNEY ON SUNDAY BOOK

Three First Round Games To Staged By Amateurs At Landis Field.

Six of the sixteen teams on the entry roster will square off Sunday noon at Landis Field by way of inaugurating first round games in the baseball tournament involving the championship of Lancaster county.

Previous tourneys have listed only city teams, but the books were thrown open to other towns in the county this year, with the result that Bennet, Waverly, Hickman, Emerald and Malcolm have declared themselves in the running, stacking up against nine Lincoln aggregations.

The talent entered for the tournament is the cream of the county and a series of diamond thrillers for the entertainment of fans and followers is on the card for the next few weeks.

The schedule for the Sunday inaugural follows:

12 noon—Lincoln Colored Giants vs. Modern Woodmen 2266.

2 p. m.—City Hall vs. Bennet.

4 p. m.—Waverly vs. Gaddis Construction Co.

Entrance of the colored tossers has added a prime attraction to the tournament program. Negro ball clubs invariably are hustlers and their "will to win" makes them dangerous opponents. Strength of the Woodmen 2266 team is more or less an unknown quantity in local circles, but the Woodchoppers have passed out the word that they intend to put the "dark boys" out of the running the very first game.

City Hall and Bennet.

The City Hall crew, which has clinched the championship of the "Y" Industrial league, will line up against Bennet, one of the leaders in the Otoe county league. The Hallers have been fortified by the recent acquisition of Coach Browne and "Dutch" Witte.

The Waverly-Gaddis clash will round out the opening day tripleheader. Delegations of Bennet and Waverly fans are expected to accompany their teams. The free list has been suspended for the tournament and none but tournament players will be admitted free.

First round tripleheaders are dated for Aug. 15 and Sept. 5, the schedule being as follows:

Aug. 15—Modern Woodmen 969 vs. Emerald; Varsity Cleaners vs. Malcolmn; C. B. & Q. Beanery vs. Shogo Lithias.

Sept. 5—Hickman vs. Fisk Red Tops; O'Shea-Rogers Motors vs. Lincoln Ramblers.

Sandlotters Tournament.

Seven teams have declared themselves entered in the sandlotters tourney, which is to get under way Monday night on local diamonds. All games are to be twilight affairs. The Roberts' Dairy club was the seventh entry and the books will be kept open for an eighth club, in case one cares to enter. The Roberts aggregation has been scheduled to play the East Lincoln Bearcats Monday evening on the muny pool diamond. Other first round games in the sandlotters' competition will be played Monday at Rock Island park and the East W street diamond.

PIRATES' STAR INJURY VICTIM

Buccos Defeat Boston, But Lose the Services Of Glenn Wright.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Although Pittsburgh defeated Boston yesterday, 5 to 4, gaining a three out of four edge on the Braves in the series, the champions lost the service, for a few days at least, of Shortstop Glen Wright. The Pirates star injured his right leg when he slid into second, after making a long double in the seventh inning. CLEANERS GRAB CITY LOOP TITLE

Sipe's Team Waltzes Away With 6-2 Win Over Shogo Lithias.

The Varsity Cleaners annexed the City league baseball title Friday evening at the Landis ball lot by trimming the Shogo Lithia pastimers, 6 to 2, in an abbreviated skirmish that was called in the seventh canto on account of darkness. Johnny Bretzer, Shogo ace, was off color, the Cleaners bumping him for five runs in the first two innings, although aided by a comedy of errors by the Lithia gardners.

Yetter inaugurated the proceeding by singling to center and moving up on Roper's sacrifice. F. Ullstrom saw bag one through Bretzer's generosity. Witte singled over second, scoring Yetter, and Ullstrom came all the way around when Miller let the ball trickle through his pins. "Dutch" ambled to second unharmed and loafed home when Lebsack sent a screeching drive to the middle sector.

Cleaners Continue Attack.

Successive singles by Yetter and Roper, a walk to Witte and Lebsack's single gave the Cleaners an additional pair more in the second The Cleaners threatened again in the third and Bretzer left the picture. Burnbrook finished, allowing but one bingle during the remaining three innings.

Meantime, "Spike" Gilliland was throwing 'em past the pop manufacturers, whiffing six and allowing but eight scattered bingles throughout the mixup. The big fellow gave indications of blowing up in the fifth, however, when Price's two-base poke and singles by Burnbrook, Sitzman and Gross netted the Shogos a pair of tallies, but in the following stanza he regained his former poise and stood fast.

Stroh's Stunning Catch.

Stroh's remarkable diving catch of Frank Ullstrom's smack to left and the all-around play of Yetter, Cleaner keystone sacker, featured. Yetter, Roper and Lebsack led the attack for the winners, while Price and Baker were the potent factors in the Shogo run-making machine. The score:

Friday Contests Drew Crowd.

An unusually large crowd was present at Highland Park courts Friday for the semi-final events and the games were inspiring from first to last.

The Mahood-Schildneck match was called first and, with both players in good form, they gave an exhibition that was featured by many spectacular shots.

Each player won his games on the first two serves and then Mahood won the next four games and set by placing his shots in the back court and crossing up Schildneck.

Mahood in Straight Sets.

The 1925 state champion won the first three games of the second set and then Schildneck's service got to working perfectly and he won the next two games. However, Mahood came back strong and finished the set, 6-3.

In the final and deciding set, the score stood, 2-2, 3-3, 5-3, 5-5, and then Schildneck's defense broke down and, with several shots being over-driven, the Lincoln representative won the set and right to meet Ralph Powell for the 1926 championship.

"Dope" Favors Powell.

While Powell defeated Don Elliott in straight sets, the latter played one of the best games of the tournament, Elliott was out generalled by Powell for the most part, yet gave the farmer champion a battle that was anything but a walkaway.

Ralph Powell is favored to regain the singles title, but on account of Paul Mahood's playing Friday the latter is expected to take more games from the former champion than has been done by all contestants in the tournament. Friday's results:

Senior Singles.

Paul Mahood, Lincoln, defeated Paul Schildneck, Salem, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5.

Harrison, eliminating the latter 4 and 2, after a hard fought round.

'Trudie' Proud Girl Over Channel Crossing Feat

BY GERTRUDE EDERLE.

DOVER, England, Aug. 7.—(I. N. S.)—It seemed like ages and ages, and then, all of a sudden, I seemed to wake up found myself within a few feet of the beach. It seems like a dream now.

I knew I was right a year ago when I said I would swim the English channel.

The great point in my swimming it at all was to show that a girl could do it and that an American girl could do it, and that I was the American girl.

It all seems very far away now. I went to sleep night before last in my hotel in France and I woke up this morning in Dover, but what happened in between seems unreal.

Motor Car From Papa.

It was worth doing, just to see how pleased papa is. He promised me a motor-car if I did it and now I am going to have it.

I got tired soon after the start, but somehow it wore off in mid-channel. They tell me I did the first twelve miles at the rate of two miles an hour.

I felt my worst when I got within sight of England. It was a great encouragement at first, but it soon became discouraging because it didn't seem to get any nearer. That was bad for me, so I didn't look any more but I just kept on swimming.

Once, when I was going slowly, Burgess and papa came out and told me to stop swimming on account of the storm. I said, 'I am not coming out until I am fetched out and you just try to fetch me out."

Tide Suddenly Changed.

It seemed most difficult when I got close to Dover. The tide suddenly changed and a srong current swept me toward Deal. I felt that the sea was pulling me away from England. I thought I had better not look any more, but had better go on swimming as long as I cold keep alive. Then it got dark and the sea seemed a lot more comfortable.

By that time the lard, vaseline and oil had pretty nearly al lcome off and I was beginning to feel cold.

Glow of Light on Beach.

It seemd ages and ages and then, all of a sudden, I seemed to wake up with a glow of light and find myself within a few feet of the beach, with people dancing before bonfires and cheering.

One thing seemed to pull me through. It was the phonograph on the tug playing, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

I went ashore and here I am. Look at papa, how pleased he is, and I am going to get that roadster and I have proved that a girl, an American girl, can swim the channel.

Takes Her Daily Dip.

DOVER, England, Aug. 7.—(INS)—After having spent more than fourteen hours victoriously battling the English channel yesterday, Gertrude Ederle's first act of relaxation today was to dive right back into the channel for a swim.

"Trudie" came down to the Dover beach at noon and took a running dive into the water she had conquered. A sort of a defiant dive it was, flaunting the channel waters.

"Nope, I'm not going to swim back to France," she said, as she laughed and struck out from the shore.

"I just came in for a swim. I can never face a day without a swim."

Not Feling Tired.

"I don't feel tired," and she splashed about in the shallow water after a good brisk swim. "My arms and legs ache some times though. When I awoke this morning, 'Pop' grabbed my hand and he made me wince. My legs are still tender."

Miss Ederle was the cynosure for all eyes on the beach and she attracted a great crowd, as she came from the water, but she wore an ordinary bathing suit and was not distinguishable from the other bathers.

"She is relaxing her muscles," "Pop" Ederle explained, as those near him marvelled at the girl's return to the water so soon after her gruelling battle.

Refreshed by Her Sleep.

"Trudie" awoke at nine o'clock this morning, after less than seven hours sleep, radiant and refreshed and showing no signs of the great strain of the day before.

Her first act upon rising was to rush upstairs and warmly kiss her father, Henry Ederle.

Miss Ederle got to bed at 2:45 o'clock this morning, after a gay supper party in the Grand hotel. There she had been toasted and hailed as the world's "supreme woman athlete of today and any time."

Her Muscles Massaged.

The loyal group which had superintended the girl's training insisted on giving her a thorough massage before they would permit her to retire. Her sleep was deep and apparently refreshing.

Asked this morning by Ishak Helmy, the Egyptian swimmer, how she was feeling, she said:

"I am a little tired, but nothing more than that."

Except for a slight twinge in the left knee ,the New York girl showed no ill effects of the long swim. The absence of muscular aches was attributed to the massaging she had received.

Civic Greeting at Boulogne.

The Ederle party will leave for France on the 4 o'clock boat today, landing at Boulogne, where the mayor has informed "pop" Ederle that he would like to extend to Gertrude an official welcome on Monday.

Telegrams of congratulation poured in all day, from France, England and the United States. Leading athletes of the world hailed Gertrude as a super-woman and expressed amazement at her history-making achievement, especially in view of the terrific odds against her

World's proudest Father.

Henry Ederle, father of the swimmer, and prosperous New York butcher, after kissing her fondly when they met this morning, said to her:

"You have made me the happiest and proudest father in the world, but I am through with that channel. Never again."

Gertrude was dressed this morning in a plain dark blue frock, with brown shoes and stockings.

Miss Ederle plans to spend a week in Paris and then she will go to Germany with "pop" to visit "pop's" mother. She plans to leave for New York on the Berengaria August 21.

SPEAKER OUTFIT BOWS TO YANKS

Cleveland Loses Odd Clash Of Series to New York By 8 to 7 Margin.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 7.—(AP)—New York won the odd game of the series from Cleveland yesterday, 8 to 7, Hoyt coming to the rescue with the tying run on second base and striking out McNulty, a pinch-hitter. New York bunched its hits off Levsen in two innings, but errors of omission on the part of the infield were more responsible for his defeat than his effectiveness. He had won seven straight games. Ruth made his thirty-fifth home run of the season in the fifth inning with one on, while Burns of the Indians made three doubles, increasing his total to 52 for the season, driving in four of Cleveland's runs. Spectacular fielding by Spurgeon and Combs featured the game. By innings:

New York ....4 0 1 0 1 0 2 0 0—8 12 1
Cleveland ....2 0 0 0 3 0 0 1 1—7 14 1

Batteries—Shocker, Braxton, Hoyt and Severeid; Levsen, Karr and Sewell.

Tigers' Errors Lose Game.

DETROIT, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Five Detroit errors contributed to Washington's 12 to 8 victory over the Tigers yesterday. Two of these misplays came in the sixth, when the Senators scored five runs and knocked Wells out of the box. The Tigers fileld the bases in the eighth with one out, when Marberry went to Morrell's relief and retired the side. By innings:

Washington 2 0 0 3 0 5 0 2 0—12 13 0
Detroit .....0 3 4 1 0 0 0 0 0— 8 13 5

Batteries—Ruether, Morrell, Marberry and Ruel; Wells, Holloway and Woodall.

Sox Win Three In Row.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Chicago made it three straight from Boston by piling up an early lead by bunching hits with the visitors' errors and defeating Boston yesterday, 7 to 4, in the final game of the series. The visitors used three pitchers, while Connally went the route for the White Sox. By innings:

Chicago ......1 5 0 0 0 0 1 0 •—7 9 1

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—(AP)—"Lefty" Grove pitched effectively and the Philadelphia Athletics won the final game of the series from the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 6 to 3. The Athletics bunched hits in the fifth inning for five runs, Hale tripling with three on. Poole hit a home run in the eighth. Grove held the Browns to two hits until the ninth, when he allowed two singles and a triple for two runs. By innings:

Philadelphia .0 0 0 0 5 0 0 1 0—6 9 1

Myers Lands As Assistant Coach

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 7.—Douglas Myers, formerly captain of the Beatrice high school football team and later with the Cornhusker squad, has been elected assistant coach and trainer at Loyola university, New Orleans, La., and will leave the coming week to assume his new duties. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Myers of the Ellis vicinity.

U. S. Fears Loss of Davis Cup As Tilden-Johnston Beaten

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 7.—(AP)—An amazing series of tennis reversals, climaxed by a straight set victory for Elizabeth Ryan over Helen Wills in the final of the women's singles, yesterday has threatened the reign of two national title-holders and America's defense of the international Davis cup.

An atmosphere of uncertainty has been thrown around the selection of the cup defense team by the unexpected downfall of William T. Tilden, R. Norris Williams and William M. Johnston in the singles.

The early elimination of Williams and Johnstone in the singles of the Seabright tournament, their initial appearance of this season in the east, has deprived both players of competition which they admit would have been beneficial preparation for the Davis cup tryouts next week.

Williams Erratic.

Williams, who went down to defeat before an unranked collegian, Lionel Ogden of Stanford University, has been brilliant, but erratic in his doubles play, paired with Vincent Richards. Johnston appears to have been benefitted by playing alongside Edward G. Chandler in the team event. With the two Davis cup veterans striving to round into championship form, Tilden has forsaken the stage temporarily to play here in both the men's and mixed doubles, but it has remained for Vincent Richards to encourage American tennis followers in their hope for successful defense of the trophy.

Richards at His Best.

By defeating Manuel Alonso of Spain yesterday, 6-2, 10-6, 6-2, the young internationalist demonstrated conclusively that he has attained the peak of his brilliant volleying game, which is considered by critics as making Richards a strong candidate for one of the singles positions on the defending team.

Richards' triumph, which gave him a second leg on the Seabright bowl, once more renewed discussion as to the possibility of his overthrowing Tilden in the national tournament.

Helen's Crown in Danger.

Observers here were inclined to accept the defeat of Miss Helen Wills at 614, 6-1, as strong indication that her crown is far from secure. Miss Ryan, who ranked No. 2 a year ago, proved to a large gallery that she is prepared to launch a formidable challenge nine days hence in the national title event for the crown, held by the youthful champion.

Miss Ryan surpassed Miss Wills in both base line and net play. Her spectacular recoveries left few openings for drives which did not apepar to carry the pace and direction of Helen at her best.
